Forty Localities Taken in Soviet Drive on Smolensk

Russian Lines Stabilizing On Belgorod-Kharkov Front

LONDON, March 22 (CP).—Red Army columns driving toward the great German base of Smolensk today captured the railroad town of Durovo and forty localities just to the North, the Soviets announced, while to the South the Russian lines appeared to be stabilizing on the long front from Belgorod to south of Kharkov against the German counter-offensive.

The Russian offensive on the central front rolled into the forty populated places, south of Bely, in one heavy surge toward Smolensk today, and 5,500 Germans have been killed in the last three days in one sector of this front, the midnight communique as recorded by the Soviet radio monitor announced.

In their noon communique the Russians reported capture of Durovo, only fifty-seven miles from Smolensk on the main railroad to Moscow.

A dispatch to the London News-Chronicle said one Soviet force had surged to within twenty miles of Yartsevo, last big centre of resistance east of Smolensk. Yartsevo is thirty-five miles northeast of Smolensk. Another column advancing from the northeast was said to be less than fifty miles from Smolensk.

FIERCE GERMAN COUNTER-ATTACKS

The Germans launched fierce counter-attacks against Soviet columns converging on Smolensk, but all these attacks were broken with heavy Nazi casualties, the war bulletin declared.

One height which the Germans had strongly fortified was stormed

Occupy All Of Mambare River Area

Allied Ground Troops Advance in New Guinea

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, March 23 (Tuesday) (AP). — Allied ground troops, advancing slowly up the northern coast of New Guinea, have killed more than 700 Japanese and now completely occupy the Mambare River area, only 100 miles south of the strong Japanese base at Salamaua, the Allied Command announced today.

Moving through tough jungle country, the Allied troops have infiltrated more than forty miles north of Buna since the end of the Papuan campaign, which wiped out 15,000 Japanese troops, and now have cleared enemy forces from the Ambasi, Kimusi Opi and Mambare River valleys, the noon communique from Allied Headquarters said.

"More than 100 Japanese have been taken prisoner in this drive, and many other hundreds have undoubtedly died of starvation and disease in the swamps where they endeavored to find refuge from our attacks," the communique said.

The Mambare River was the scene of Japanese disaster, December 13, when the enemy attempted to land reinforcements there during the heavy fighting that then was in progress for Buna.

Nearly 1,000 enemy troops were being put ashore in that area when Allied planes discovered the landing, and smashed down with bombs and strafing fire.

THREE OTHER POSITIONS HARRIED

Japanese forces at three other positions on New Guinea—at Madang, Finschhafen and Lae—were harried by Allied bombers and fighters Monday, the communique said, as pressure was maintained from the air upon major enemy bases.

Heavy bombers, accompanied by long-range fighter planes, made a co-ordinated attack on Gasmata, on the south coast of New Britain. Two-thousand-pound bombs landed directly on the runway and started large fires, while the fighter planes heavily strafed the area from a low altitude, causing heavy damage to buildings and other installations.

Three enemy planes raided the Milne Bay area shortly after midnight Monday, the communique said. Two casualties resulted, but there was no other damage.

Reconnaissance planes, swinging over the widespread sea lanes and waters off the south coast of New Britain, failed to discover any trace of a large Japanese destroyer which had been heavily damaged in an air attack the night before.

Americans in Heavy Attack On Navy Base

R.A.F. Bombers and Fighters Raid Cities

LONDON, March 23 (Tuesday) (CP).—R.A.F. bombers, following up a smashing daylight assault by American airmen on the big German naval base at Wilhelmshaven, attacked targets in occupied territory last night, the British announced today.

One enemy raider was reported shot down last night during an attack on coastal areas in Northeast England.

BIGGEST RAID YET BY AMERICANS

LONDON, March 22 (CP).—Big United States bombers ranged over Germany today to plaster the huge German naval base at Wilhelmshaven for the third time, smacking their bombs down upon the docks in one of the heaviest and most accurate attacks by the United States Eighth Air Force.

Several hundred tons of bombs were rained down upon the strategic base.

The bombers fought a running battle with Nazi fighters from the German coast to the target, and back again, shooting down "a number" of them. Three of the bombers were lost, a communique announced.

The raid was pointed against shipping installations at the naval base in a target area only a few hundred feet in diameter.

The weather was excellent for bombing "and results were good," the communique announced.

The R.A.F. sent out Ventura bombers during the day for the second attack within a week on Maastuis, near Rotterdam.

R.A.F. fighter planes struck, meanwhile, at other targets in The Netherlands and objectives in Northern France.

R.A.F. Mosquitos, patroling the Bay of Biscay, downed two Junkers 88's. The Mosquitos are plywood planes with twin-motors, and are designed for light bombing and reconnaissance at about 400 miles an hour.

Report Axis In New Pact

"New World Order" Agreement Reached

NEW YORK, March 22 (AP).—The Axis radios said tonight that full agreement on building a "new world order" and carrying forward a joint war was reached today by representatives of Japan, Germany and Italy, sitting in Tokio under provisions of the Axis Tri-Partite Pact.

The broadcasts, by the Berlin and Tokio radios, were recorded by The Associated Press.

The Berlin radio, quoting a Japanese communique, said Foreign Minister Masatuki Tani, Japanese Foreign Minister; War Minister Hideki Tojo and Navy Minister Shigetaro Shimada participated in behalf of Japan; Ambassador Heinrich Georg Stahmer in behalf of Germany, and Ambassador Mario Indelli in behalf of Italy. The respective military, naval and air attaches also were present.

Premier Had No Time For Beer Conference

OTTAWA, March 22 (CP) — Prime Minister Mackenzie King declined to see E. P. Taylor, president of Canadian Breweries Ltd., in connection with Mr. Taylor's protest against recent restrictions on the sale of beer, it was disclosed in correspondence tabled today in the House of Commons at the request of Rev. A. M. Nicholson (C.C.F., Mackenzie).

In addition to an exchange of letters between Mr. King and Mr. Taylor, the correspondence included letters to the Prime Minister from H. W. Molson, president of Molson's Brewery Ltd., and Norman J. Dawes, president of National Breweries Ltd., dissociating themselves from an advertisement, signed by Mr. Taylor, in The Ottawa Journal of February 11.

Mr. Taylor's first letter said the whole tenor of Mr. King's broadcast speech of December 16 was "unfortunate insofar as it suggested to the mass of the Canadian people that they were drinking too much and thus adversely affecting the efforts of the armed services and munitions workers."

SPEAKS IN FAVOR OF BEER

He suggested Mr. King would have been better to have addressed his message to the few who were intemperate and said that in other nations the moderate use of alcoholic beverages, particularly beer, had been given credit for a contribution to the war effort.

It had been proved many times that restrictions produced intemperance and law evasion, he said.

He asked for an opportunity to discuss the subject and said he could demonstrate that a statement to correct some of the implications in Mr. King's December 16 radio speech would be in the national interest.

Mr. King replied January 4 that he realized there were two sides to every question. He directed Mr. Taylor's attention to what was done in Great Britain to reduce both the sale and the strength of beer. He said he would be glad to discuss the matter with Mr. Taylor but for pressure of public duties.

"The recent order in council with reference to restrictions of alcoholic beverages in a time of war was, in no sense, a personal order but an order passed by the Cabinet as a whole," said Mr. King.

Bracken Plans Coast Holiday

OTTAWA, March 22 (CP).—John Bracken, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, said tonight he planned to spend a week or ten days in British Columbia next month.

He said the purpose of his visit was to familiarize himself with conditions in that Province. Already he has made a similar trip to the Maritimes and he is going to Quebec shortly.

Mr. Bracken said the dates of the British Columbia visit now were being worked out.

French Guiana Governor Named

LONDON, March 22 (AP).—General Henri Giraud, military and civil commander of French Africa, has appointed a Governor of French Guiana, the Morocco radio said tonight in a broadcast recorded by the Ministry of Information. The broadcast did not give the name of the appointee.

Fighting French headquarters in London announced Saturday that General Charles de Gaulle had appointed Maurice Bertaut to the governorship of French Guiana. Bertaut has been Administrator of Colonies for the Fighting French.

Observers speculated whether there would be a conflict with the De Gaulle appointee.

Yugoslav Guerrillas Forced to Retreat

BERNE, March 22 (AP).—A Budapest dispatch to the Neue Zurcher Zeitung tonight said Yugoslav guerrillas opposing Axis troops in Bosnia had been forced to retreat southward into Hercegovina and were making a stand at Konjic, some thirty miles north of Mostar.

In Bosnia, where Axis troops were reported to be "mopping up," the dispatch said authorities were faced with the problem of caring for 30,000 orphaned children.

This message was scrawled on the fuselage of a battle-scarred British fighter plane. It was pictured on its way to an aviation overhaul plant in Alberta where 500 men and women give aerial "surgery," restoring to flying trim planes which have been wrecked or damaged.

Laval Summoned To Italy by Il Duce

Seek to Ease Present Strained Relations Between Two Countries

BERNE, March 22 (AP).—Benito Mussolini was reported here tonight to have summoned Pierre Laval to Rome in an effort to clarify and possibly ease present strained relations between Italy and France.

The report, which could not be immediately confirmed, said Mussolini was worried both at the mounting unrest in France as the Nazi forced labor programme stripped the nation of its manpower, and over the fact that Hitler had ordered him to send numerous divisions of troops into France to replace German forces transferred to the Russian front.

Mussolini was said to fear that French resentment against the Nazis, as well as against Italy for its "stab in the back" at the outset of the war, would be vented against Italian occupation troops.

Hitler was reported to have demanded twenty-two Italian divisions to be divided between France and the Balkans. The Gazette Lausanne commented that the role of Italian troops in France would be much more than just to "maintain order."

EXTENSIVE RAID IN LYON

A dispatch to The Tribune Geneva tonight said Nazi-directed French police made extensive raids in Lyon today in an effort to run down youths attempting to evade the Nazi labor draft. Trains were said to be leaving the city daily filled with men bound for work in Germany's war industries.

From other sectors of France came reports of youths escaping to mountains and forests and of guerrillas well supplied with arms awaiting favorable opportunities to strike at occupation troops.

La Suisse Geneva told of one band of twenty French youths who crossed the border into Switzerland at Saint Gingolph being forced to return to France because they were refugees from their own country's labor laws and could not be considered political refugees.

The same newspaper said that in the event of an Allied invasion of France all men between the ages of eighteen and sixty would be herded into concentration camps.

Flies Atlantic Twice in Day

MIAMI, Fla., March 22 (AP).—Capt. Joseph H. Hart, of Pan-American Airways, set a record last week when he flew his clipper across the South Atlantic twice in twenty-four hours.

Pan-American officials said today it was the first time a commercial plane had made the round trip in a single day.

Hart and his crew flew the Boeing flying boat from Natal, Brazil, to a West African port and returned to Natal in twenty-three hours and fifty-nine minutes.

Warning Given By Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP).—President Roosevelt pointedly reminded John L. Lewis tonight that any wage increase negotiated for coal miners would be subject to review by the War Labor Board, and simultaneously the board refused to recede from its "little steel" formula for holding wages in check.

Mr. Roosevelt stepped into the soft coal contract dispute with a telegraphed request to mine operators and Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, for continued production if no agreement is reached by April 1, when the present contract expires.

He proposed that whatever agreement was finally reached be retroactive to April 1 and promised the operators that if continuing production under present coal price ceilings, with a later retroactive wage increase, resulted in "undue hardship" the situation would receive "due consideration from the agencies of Government concerned with costs and prices."

Skilled Workers From Italy Go to Germany

NEW YORK, March 22 (AP).—The Berlin radio said tonight in a broadcast recorded by The Associated Press that German and Italian committees had agreed that "Italy will send to the Reich a big contingent of skilled workers" for "particularly important" German war factories.

A "large number" of Italian farm workers also will be sent to Germany this Summer, the broadcast added.

In return, Italian workers employed in secondary German plants, closed down as part of the Axis "total mobilization" programme, will return to Italy, the announcement said.

PRISONERS EXECUTED

STOCKHOLM, March 22 (AP).—Henrich Himmler's firing squads executed all prisoners held in the Rowno Prison Camp in Eastern Poland as "punishment and retaliation" for an attempted break that resulted in the death of one German and one Dutch Nazi guard, according to an announcement in a German newspaper for the Ukraine. The number shot was not revealed.

BULLETINS

RAID NORTHEAST ENGLAND

LONDON, March 22 (CP).—Enemy raiders dropped heavy explosive bombs on a Northeast English area late tonight. There were no immediate reports of the extent of damage or of casualties. Incendiary bombs were dropped elsewhere in the Northeast and some bombs were dropped on coastal districts. The raiders encountered anti-aircraft fire described as heavy.

AT PANAMA CITY

PANAMA CITY, March 22 (AP).—Vice-President Henry A. Wallace, on a tour of Latin American countries, reached Panama City tonight after spending part of the day at Boquette, a mountain resort in Northern Panama. Wallace called on President Ricardo Adolf de la Guardia of Panama this morning. Later the President and Wallace were luncheon guests of a wealthy plantation owner.

WILLKIE AS ARBITRATOR

DETROIT, March 22 (AP).—The Utility Workers Organizing Committee (C.I.O.) and the Consumers Power Company agreed tonight upon the selection of Wendell L. Willkie as impartial arbitrator of a contract dispute that led to the threat of a serious strike and stoppage of work in major Michigan war production areas other than Detroit. Consumers Power is a subsidiary of Commonwealth & Southern of which Willkie is former president.

Eighth Army Cuts Through To First Objectives as Major Assault Starts on Mareth Line

Americans Sweep Toward Gulf Of Gabes; Take 1,400 Prisoners

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, March 22 (AP).—Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British Eighth Army was reported tonight to have fought its way through its first objectives in the Mareth Line on a six-mile front, while American armored forces captured 1,400 Axis prisoners as they swept across South-Central Tunisia toward the Gulf of Gabes.

The Eighth Army, thrusting between the sea and the Mareth road, was said to have overcome severe Axis opposition and deep minefields in its initial plunge into the formidable Mareth fortifications, manned by Marshal Erwin Rommel's German veterans.

As the Nazis fought bitterly to prevent their stronghold being pierced from the South, Lt. Gen. George S. Patton American columns, seventy miles to the northwest, reached the edge of the Tunisian coastal plain within fifty miles of the Mediterranean at one point.

NO REAL COUNTER-ATTACK

Rommel has not yet mounted a real counter-attack against the Americans moving to cut him off from Northern Tunisia and force him into a "last stand" at the Mareth fortifications. Either his armored forces are pinned down by the British assault from the south or he is awaiting a better strategical moment to strike back.

Patton's drive was two-pronged; one followed the railroad connecting Gafsa and Maknassy with Mahares on the coast, the other striking from El Guetar eastward through captured Bou Hamran.

These prongs thrust along both sides of the Orbata Hills, where shabbily clothed Italian infantry are being trapped in sizeable numbers, the bag increasing hourly.

The Allied Western Desert air force was shuttle-bombing the Mareth sector, with R.A.F. and American medium bombers raining explosives with clockwork precision. Nineteen waves swept to the attack on Saturday and Sunday, and there were many more today.

As one force of bombers was over the target, another was on the way there and still a third was at the Allied base refuelling and rearming. Armorers and riggers swarmed over the craft the moment they landed.

OPENED ASSAULT SATURDAY NIGHT

The Eighth Army opened its assault on the French-built fortifications on Saturday night and headquarters said "operations are continuing satisfactorily."

Only in the hills and olive groves in the north was there an Allied reverse. Lieut.-Gen. Kenneth Anderson's First Army of veterans of Dunkerque were thrust back from Nefsa, forty-seven miles southwest

From Europe Day by Day—

THE TIMES, London

News and Comment on International Events selected from The Times daily and published in The Daily Colonist by special arrangement with The Vancouver Daily Province.

(Copyright, 1943, by Southam Co.)

LONDON, March 22.—The Eighth Army is at last on the move in Tunisia. No news comes through the censorship, but from German reports it would appear that tank and other armored units have started to unhinge Rommel's defence lines in the south. All that The Times Algiers correspondent can say at this stage is that in the air heavy attacks have been made on the Mareth positions, starting fires and doing other damage. This would be a natural preliminary to large-scale ground operations.

From Moscow The Times reports another Red Army reverse in the loss of Belgorod, which means the Nazis have at last been able to cross the Donets River. The issue of this great series of battles, however, remains doubtful. Nazi losses in men and machines is so great they have been compelled to abandon frontal attacks and seek weak spots in the Russian lines. The Germans are concentrating all available forces in the Izyum area, sending forward wave after wave of tanks at night in brilliant moonlight.

From Stockholm The Times reports that destruction of men and material along the whole southern front is tremendous. Germans need strong positions across the Donets if they are to start any fresh offensives in the Spring or Summer. Russian strategy for future attacks necessitates possession of the whole eastern bank of the Donets, and these facts account for the ferocity of the present battles.

On the central front the Soviet advance continues and troops now are closing in on the important railway junction of Durovo. The Germans are trying to stem the advance by use of a new Focke-Wulf aircraft, and battles in the clouds are becoming frequent.

Editorially, The Times says of Premier Churchill's radio announcement of a four-year postwar plan for Britain that nothing can encourage the nation more than to know the Government has a clear, courageous policy of social reform and firm determination to put it into operation at the earliest moment.

On finance, The Times says, the Premier seemed to take the view that money was a static and limiting factor, and to overlook the extent to which dynamic social and economic policy can create the new wealth out of which it is financed.

War production is not limited by money but by manpower and material. It will be tragic, says The Times, if we fail to learn the application of this fundamental truth to peace policies.

Second point The Times makes is that the four-year plan should be begun now so far as the war's demands permit, because a foretaste of what is promised would raise the nation's efforts to a new pitch.

Of Hitler's mumbled speech The Times says it shows him now reduced to two propaganda weapons, both defensive. One is that Britain,

New Head of Home Fleet

Announce Promotion of Sir Bruce A. Fraser

LONDON, March 22 (CP).—Vice-Admiral Sir Bruce A. Fraser has been appointed commander-in-chief of the Home Fleet replacing Admiral Sir John C. Tovey, it was announced today.

Fraser was given the rank of acting admiral. He has been the second in command.

Tovey, who has commanded the Home Fleet since the start of the war, was made commander-in-chief of the Nore, naval shore base post which includes supervision of operations along the eastern English coast. He succeeds Admiral Sir George H. DO Lyon.

Acting Admiral Sir E. Neville Syfret was named Lord Commissioner of the Admiralty and vice-chief of the naval staff, succeeding Vice-Admiral Sir Henry R. Moore Moore replaces Fraser.

Rear Admiral W. R. Patterson, former chief of staff and later head of the British Board of Admiralty delegation in Washington, was appointed Lord Commissioner of the Admiralty and assistant chief of the naval staff. He succeeds Rear Admiral R. R. McGrigor, who was given an undisclosed assignment.

Churchill's Speech Wins Press Praise

"Most Important" Says Daily Mail

LONDON, March 22 (AP).—The London Daily Mail today said editorially that Prime Minister Churchill's speech Sunday "was by far the most important he has delivered," and termed it "a 'real charter for the postwar future."

"Never before have the people of this country had unfolded to them a conception so fast, so comprehensive, and so stimulating . . . the world was shown the structure of a brand new social order to be realized within the time limit of a four-year plan," The Daily Mail said.

Diplomatic observers commented that in a sense Churchill had pictured a new democracy for the new world—a coming democracy without idle persons either at the top or the bottom, without snobbery, but with equality of opportunity.

"It was a speech which will cause lively discussion both here and in the rest of the Allied countries for a long time to come," one declared.

There was surprise that the speech dealt chiefly with peace and not with war, and with the setting-up for the postwar years.

The London Times said Mr. Churchill was "less than fair" to those who had considered the time

Canada's Power Shown In Great Mock Battle

WITH CANADIAN FORCES ON ATTACK MANOEUVRES IN BRITAIN, March 22 (CP).—A large Canadian-British force commanded by Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian Army in Britain, has completed a great attack exercise in which it battled forward for more than a week over an area of some 4,000 square miles defended by a powerful army under Lt.-Gen. J. A. Gammell, general officer commanding-in-chief, the British Eastern Command.

It was the largest and most realistic military workout ever held in Britain and the vast area in which the battles were fought literally trembled day and night with the movement of troops, tanks, artillery and endless supply columns.

Both armies had at their disposal and made the fullest use of more squadrons of aircraft than had ever been employed in army manoeuvres in Britain. While the exercise lasted the skies were cut to shreds by reconnaissance planes, fighters, fighter-bombers and light bombers which practically had the air to themselves by day. The ceaseless roar of air activity was maintained

The exercise was a test of attack after nightfall by heavy bombers on their way to Germany from a bridgehead to serve as anchor of an invading force. The

Pope's Illness Is Not Serious

NEW YORK, March 22 (AP).—The Berlin radio claimed today that Pope Pius XII is suffering from a severe cold and is confined to bed with a high fever, but the B.B.C., in a broadcast recorded by C.B.S., quoted a Rome announcement that he is only slightly indisposed and that his doctors "say there is no cause for anxiety."

D.N.B. in a Rome dispatch broadcast later by the Berlin radio said that the Pontiff had "fallen slightly sick" and that "physicians declared that his condition gave no rise to anxiety."

The report that His Holiness is confined to bed was contained in a Vatican City dispatch broadcast by the Berlin radio and recorded by The Associated Press.

Pilot Drowned When Plane Crashes Here

Bailing out when his fast, low-wing monoplane crashed just south of James Island at 3:55 p.m. yesterday afternoon, a pilot of the R.C.A.F. drowned when apparently entangled in his parachute. The body was recovered. A court of inquiry has been ordered to investigate the cause of the accident.

The pilot's identity is withheld pending notification of his next of kin.

Canadian Troops Capture British Force in Test

WITH CANADIAN FORCES ON ATTACK MANOEUVRES IN BRITAIN, March 22 (CP).—A Western Canadian Infantry Brigade commanded by a well-known permanent force officer from Nova Scotia surprised and captured on the Buckinghamshire front an entire British brigade lock, stock and barrel, plus two brigadiers and two colonels.

The Canadians, who earlier in the exercise had marched many miles, boarded British transports taken at the same time and rolled on with the same "Wheeled Westerners" applied to them.

Their coup in a creeping attack after nightfall was one of the outstanding tactical successes of major manoeuvres between a Canadian-British force on the one hand and a British army on the other. It left a good-sized hole in the front defended by British forces.

ATTACK STRONGLY OCCUPIED POSITION

The village of Brill, the outskirts of which the Canadian brigade reached after several days' marching and fighting, was the scene of their success. They approached in the late afternoon, but reconnaissance fighting patrols reported it strongly occupied.

However, by nightfall fresh reconnaissance reports told that British troops had climbed aboard vehicles and were lined up waiting to withdraw.

One Canadian battalion quietly threw around the village a line of men, armed with grenades, who blocked all exits; while a second battalion moved north of Brill to block both ends of another column of 200 troop-laden vehicles awaiting an order to pull away.

CAPTURE TROOPS AND COMMANDERS

When the noise died down in the village the Canadians there counted two British battalions with their commanders and 150 vehicles, all captured. The prize of the second battalion, which had moved to the northward was one British battalion with 200 vehicles and brigade headquarters, complete with two brigadiers.

The commander of the Canadian brigade, who says his home town is "In Canada," though he is of Nova Scotian origin, promptly motorized two of his battalions with captured vehicles and sent the surplus back to the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps.

Until the umpires intervened and returned the vehicles to their original owners, his brigade, who had first called themselves "River Crossers," were known as "Wheeled Westerners."

Praise Churchill

ripe for a broad statement on post-war social policy.

"It will be a grave disappointment to the people of this country if no foretaste of forthcoming reforms can be offered while the war lasts," said The Times. "To bend the efforts of the Government and people to a realization now of some installment of a future social plan . . . will not be to divert men's minds from the supreme effort of winning the war."

The London Daily Telegraph, however, said that "until the war is won any temptation, in Churchill's phrase, to 'take your eye off the ball' must be rejected."

The Daily Express also praised Mr. Churchill's speech and stressed that "beating Germany is the first task," while The Herald declared "there are many points on which we should like more detailed indication of his attitude."

GERMAN IDEAS

The first Axis comment came from the German-controlled Paris radio, and said that Churchill "painted a rosy picture of postwar Europe and forecast re-establishment of a kind of League of Nations."

Later it referred to the speech as the announcement of "a new series of Dragonic laws for the British people." This broadcast dwelt heavily on the Prime Minister's warning against hopes for a possible early end to the war, and said he gave "a sombre picture of the postwar period."

The German radio as heard by Reuter's said "Churchill's promises are protected by so many unfulfilled conditions, that they belong to the realm of daydreams rather than facts."

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP).—State Secretary Cordell Hull, commenting today on Prime Minister Churchill's broadcast, said continued discussion of the fundamentals of conditions and problems facing the United Nations is necessary.

He was asked at a press conference if he agreed with the Prime Minister's suggestion that no detailed discussion of postwar political problems should be undertaken until after Hitler's defeat. He replied he understood the Prime Minister's view is that nothing in the way of a blueprint of postwar organization is practicable until a later stage of the war.

In the meantime, Hull said, it is only wise that statesmen and governments and peoples should be revolving in their minds the fundamentals of conditions and problems revealed to them as the war goes on. The general result would be, he said, that countries could ascertain their respective general views as to which way the world should be pointed.

Warns of Cut In Newsprint

Drastic Reduction Coming, Cowan Says

PHILADELPHIA, March 22 (AP).—Ralph Cowan, circulation director of The Toronto Star, told the Interstate Circulation Managers' Association in convention here today that there will be a drastic cut in newsprint by July 1.

"Publishers are not facing the facts," Cowan said. "The recent March 8 issue of their bulletin simply passes over the real and existing shortages of wood cutters, wood and power in Canada, by denying that they exist and stating that there is plenty of wood pulp in Canada.

"Last Monday one Quebec paper mill announced it would make no more newsprint for the duration. Other mills have stopped this production for some time."

Cowan said the only answer is smaller newspapers.

PROTESTS AGAINST NEWSPRINT RATIONING

OTTAWA, March 22 (CP). — Protests against the rationing of newsprint was made in the House of Commons tonight by Lionel Bertrand (Liberal, Terrebonne), president of the Rural Press Association of Quebec.

"Should the war afford a pretext for rationing one of the most important war industries—public information?" he asked.

"Should we not rather take advantage of the war to reduce the enormous and useless waste of paper which occurs in Government offices, and to cancel for the duration a series of publications which are not read and which very often go straight to the furnace and not to the salvage committees?"

Mr. Bertrand spoke late this evening in the budget debate and confined his whole address to a discussion of newspapers in wartime.

SAYS RESULTS NOT PRODUCED

The Quebec weekly newspaper publisher declared that the Wartime Information Board, for which $1,500,000 would be asked this year, had not produced the results expected from it.

"Many competent persons having a thorough knowledge of journalism were successively appointed to direct this organization but they all walked out as if they considered nothing efficient could be effected in that bureau—as if its very existence was questionable."

"Instead of flooding newspapers with literature and bulletins which are not used it should limit its task to the radio and movies in a national propaganda in favor of unity, better understanding and common effort," Mr. Bertrand said.

Mr. Bertrand said he believed that the Canadian public had a right to immediate announcement in the press of all sinkings of ships and all disasters and setbacks in the war. They could take it, he said, and immediate publication would avert much controversy and complaint, such as that arising from sinkings in the St. Lawrence River and Gulf.

Mock Battle

strongest possible opposition was placed in the way of the advance.

Attacking Canadian infantry and armored strength fighting hand to hand with the British troops and their armor battled their way almost from England's coast up to Northamptonshire and Bedfordshire, more than 100 miles to the north-east, in a sweep around London.

The British Army commanded by General Gammell, who is sometimes described as "another Montgomery," fought a clever withdrawing action that left in its wake every conceivable form of obstacle from extensive minefield belts to demolished bridges and roads. The attacking army had to build its own bridges over almost every crossing of the twisting Kennet and Thames Rivers.

General Gammell's thorough demolitions and minelaying placed an immense burden upon the Royal Canadian Engineers, who worked day and night repairing and building bridge after bridge for the attacking forces. The sappers erected bridges alongside structures that were actually intact but ruled demolished by the umpires or else were not sufficiently strong to bear the weight of troop columns and heavy equipment.

UNRESTRICTED USE OF LAND PERMITTED

The forces, for the first time, were permitted unrestricted use of land where the necessities of their operations required, and one or two peaceful villages will never be quite the same. Manoeuvring of Churchill tanks, such as now are operating in Tunisia, and Canadian Rams left much of the countryside battered and torn.

The invading army was presumed to have landed in "Southland," the boundary of which extended roughly from London's southwestern outskirts some sixty miles northwest of Stratford-on-Avon, where it ran at right angles into the border of neutral territory called "Westland."

Gammell's army, which had raced down into "Southland" early in the exercise with the advantage of a twenty-four-hour start to get into position for its back-tracking fight, defended "Eastland" territory from the "Westland" and "Southland" boundaries across to East Anglia.

McNaughton employed his infantry forces as the sledgehammer of his attack and despite the elaborateness of demolitions, Canadian infantry formations established vital bridgeheads over the Kennet and Thames a few hours after they swept up from the south.

One of the first major objectives was the university town of Oxford, which later was the scene of a strong counter-attack by Gammell's tanks. Oxford fell to the Canadians after they had taken the towns of Reading and Henley on the Thames and Wallingford.

A well-known French-Canadian unit took Henley amid street fighting which cost them heavy theoretical casualties ruled by the thousands of umpires participating.

The Rams went into action in the final hours in the Northampton area after advancing through the Cotswold country.

OUTSTANDING TACTICAL VICTORY

A Western Canadian brigade scored one of the outstanding tactical victories of the exercise when it captured an enemy infantry brigade practically complete with two brigadiers, two lieutenant-colonels and most of its transport in the village of Brill.

The first unit to come into contact with Gammell's forces was a Canadian cavalry regiment which carried out long-range armored patrols from the moment the attack force started rolling.

The Canadian Army's greatest artillery concentration came into play during the exercise and Canadian signallers laid thousands of miles of cable over the country.

Test New Tank Destroyer

Up between a couple of sparse trees on the proving ground rises one of the new M-10 tank destroyers which are being turned out in Detroit, Mich. These weapons are stripped of many of the engineering refinements found on the United States medium tank in order to gain speed and mobility. The three-inch gun is manually operated and has a greater muzzle velocity than conventional tank weapons.

Eighth Army Gains

of Bizerte, to a position two miles east of the important mountain pass at Djebel Ariod. The continued German thrusts and advances in the north had the cumulative effect of posing a threat to Allied coastal supply lines.

Patton had at least the First United States Armored and the First and Thirty-Fourth Infantry Divisions in his command.

Rommel, at bay, appeared to be in a critical position, with Patton pressing down on him from the northwest and grasping for his supply line to the east, and with Sir Bernard converting his Mareth positions into a target of massed artillery and aerial bombs.

Still another British and Fighting French column was behind the Mareth Line in the Ksar Rhilane wastes but the Allies said nothing of this force. The direction of the main British assault indicated it was aiming for a break-through to Gabes, forty miles northwest of Medenine.

The Allied communique reported six Axis planes destroyed in the air yesterday at the cost of four Allied craft in what was described at headquarters as the biggest aerial operations in African history—bigger even than the assaults that ushered in the Battle of El Alamein in Egypt. The aerial blows started on Friday night and continued all day Saturday and Sunday.

HEAVY BLOWS AT TEBAGA AIRDROME

Heavy blows were struck at the Tebaga airdrome about midway between Gabes and Sfax and at four other landing fields clustered on the east coast fifteen miles northwest of Gabes. Wellington bombers in force hammered the Ferryville docks near Bizerte. Medium bombers kept up a shuttle bombing of the Mareth Line positions throughout Sunday. Heavy bombers were used on Tebaga, starting fires, and medium ones roared in while the smoke was still curling skyward.

The American armored force had swept twenty miles from Sened through some of the strongest natural defences in the world to bring Maknassy under the muzzles of the 105-millimetre guns. These guns blazed a path through frightened Italians who fled, obligingly leaving steaming plates of spaghetti and meat balls for the conquering Americans. Up to 1,400 of these Italians surrendered.

Patton and Sir Bernard were only seventy miles apart and field reports said the Americans had negotiated at least one more hilly bottleneck which had been reckoned as one of Rommel's strong positions in Central Tunisia. Near Maknassy, the Americans were fifty-two miles short of the east coast port of Mahares, which lies between Gabes and Sfax.

The bottleneck captured was Bou Hamran, eight miles due east of El Guertar. By mopping up Bou Hamran, the Americans had negotiated the six-mile El Guertarria Pass of broken terrain and commanding hill positions and were fifty-seven miles from the Gulf of Gabes. Besides these two columns, Patton was reported thrusting yet another south-east of El Guertar directly at the rear of the Mareth Line.

The Americans were said to have suffered no more than fifty casualties in taking Bou Hamran, although ambulances shuttled to the front all day.

Mustn't Frown if Pants in Patches

LONDON, March 22 (CP).—The employer who frowns on the patched pants of an employee is going to earn an official frown for himself from Hugh Dalton, president of Britain's Board of Trade.

"Men, mend again and make do until you can make do no longer."

That is the message given the people of Britain by the Board of Trade president in an announcement that clothing coupons originally valid only until July 31 must last one month longer and all clothing coupons currently will be valid until December 31.

When new books of clothing coupons are issued the people will, in all probability, be given forty-eight coupons, designed to last a year, but the chances are their value will be decreased; that is, a man's suit, now needing twenty-six coupons in addition to the purchase price, likely will call for more coupons.

"There is too much convention in the matter of clothes," said Mr. Dalton. "I hope that all employers will help and not frown on members of their staff who are not, according to pre-war standards, 'properly' dressed. It is quite wrong to be ashamed of wearing flannel trousers at the office or country clothes in town."

More women, he suggested, should wear slacks and go without stockings. Men must discard double-breasted coats.

Replying to a question about his own clothes, Mr. Dalton admitted he did not possess a utility suit "for the simple reason that I am not buying any new suits until the war is over."

Society Sponsors Sunday Concert

An enjoyable programme of piano, violin and voice was given on Sunday afternoon at First Baptist Church under the auspices of the Victoria Musical Art Society. Mrs. R. D. McCaw and Mr. Stanley Shale arranged the programme and Mrs. E. W. Hetherington, president of the society, acted as chairman. Mrs. Pierre Timp, Miss Dorothy Francis and Miss Helen McRae were accompanists.

The performance of the slow movement from the Mendelssohn piano concerto in G minor by Miss Florence Phillimore, with Mr. Oliver Stout playing the orchestral accompaniment at the organ, found immediate response with the audience as did the ensemble playing of Patricia Straughan, Patricia Williams and Raymond Le Huquet (violins), with Helen McRae at the piano, performing from the old English classics, "Air," "Allegretto," "Pavan" and "Saraband" arranged by the London String Quartette.

Other performers included Shirley Gunn, vocalist; Joan Auchinvole and Dorothy Davidson, pianists; Marie Wolfes, violinist, and a vocal trio comprising Jean Dumerton, Patricia Straughan and Georgina Moore.

in the person of Premier Churchill, was planning in 1936 for the destruction of Germany. If the Nazis are defeated now, he said, German children would be exploited and German male youth sterilized.

The other propaganda point is, of course, disinterment of the Bolshevik bogey. Only neutrals can be intimidated by the Red peril now.

As for the total German dead not exceeding half a million, the figures obviously are absurd.

Ilsley Appeals for Help in War Effort

Asks Members of Parliament to Refrain From Statements That May Prejudice Loan Campaign

OTTAWA, March 22 (CP).—Finance Minister Ilsley today appealed to members of the House of Commons to co-operate with the Government in its fiscal programme, particularly its anti-inflationary controls.

He also urged members to refrain from making public statements which might prejudice the fourth Victory Loan campaign to be launched April 26.

Mr. Ilsley, in a brief budget debate address, said he had been "concerned" over some of the speeches made in the House "as to the effect they may possibly have in the House and in the country on our measures of price control and generally on our fight against inflation."

The Minister said the Government's financial policies were sound. They were the same as those in Britain, the United States and the British Commonwealth countries.

These policies involved heavy taxation, encouragement of saving and borrowing to the limit of what the earners could be induced to save from their incomes.

"If we are right we certainly should be supported," he said. "If by any chance we and the other Governments of the United Nations are wrong about this, is this the time to try to upset the policy?

POLICIES WORKING REASONABLY WELL

"It is working reasonably well and will continue to work reasonably well."

J. A. Marshall (New Democracy, Camrose) complained that no matter how willing private members were to help the Government they were given no opportunity.

Rev. T. C. Douglas (C.C.F., Weyburn) replied to criticisms of his group made last week by Hon. R. B. Hanson (Progressive Conservative, York-Sudbury).

He said the C.C.F. party did not object to the word Socialism if it was used by those who knew its meaning. The party stood for "social ownership" of those things which control the lives of the people, but not the destruction of all private enterprise.

Mr. Ilsley defended the Prices Board and its chairman, Donald Gordon, and declared that if the numerous demands for weakening price controls were met it would mean a gradual but complete removal of the barriers against inflation.

So far as he could recollect, the minister said, only one member of the Progressive Conservative group had said he approved of the anti-inflation measures. He named A. R. Adamson (Progressive Conservative, York West).

It was necessary for Parliament to delegate wide powers because it would be physically impossible for Parliament or the Cabinet Council to pass the numerous regulations and orders involved, he continued.

HAVE SAT FOR THIRTY-SEVEN DAYS

"So far this session we have sat for thirty-seven days already and members can just think over for themselves what our record for legislative achievement has been."

Critics of the Prices Board had seemed to assume that the board and its chairman formulated their own policies without reference to the wishes of Parliament or the Government.

"Nothing could be further from the truth," he declared. He was in constant consultation with Mr. Gordon and other officials of the board.

"I take full responsibility for these decisions and am prepared to take full responsibility in the House."

Of Mr. Gordon himself the minister said one would think from some of the attacks that Mr. Gordon was "pushing around the primary producers and small retailers just because he is a big banker."

Price control had kept the cost of living within bounds. The latest index, February 1, 1943, was 116.9, an increase of 16 per cent over the prewar figure but one point below July of last year.

The Prices Board had made some adjustments but there were abundant reasons. They had sought to iron out inequalities with subsidies and slight adjustments, after the most careful consideration.

ASKS FOR JOINT ENGINEERING BOARD

John R. MacNicol (Progressive Conservative, Toronto-Davenport) reiterated his suggestion for the creation of a Dominion-Provincial engineering board to develop the war resources of the Saskatchewan River and make them available for irrigation of the three Prairie Provinces. He also urged development of British Columbia coal mines.

Mr. MacNicol said he had heard 350,000 tons of coal imported from the United States went to the Alaska Highway and en route passed "a mountain" of Canadian coal in Northern British Columbia. A railway and road should have been pushed to the Pacific Coast from the west side of the Peace River.

A large sum might well be spent in developing power and other programmes for the rebuilding of the West.

Mr. MacNicol suggested dam projects on the Saskatchewan River to permit the storing of 600,000,000 cubic feet of water. Money for such projects could "be found in the same place as we find money to fight the war."

Mr. Douglas said there had been "a storm of villification and abuse" aimed at the C.C.F. by the old-line parties in the House.

SOME ECONOMIC PLANNING INTRODUCED

Speakers had depicted "the horrors" that would occur if a C.C.F. government were elected. Yet some of the social security measures urged by the C.C.F. and once attacked were being supported by all parties. Economic planning had been assailed but under the stress of war the Government had been compelled to do some economic planning.

The C.C.F. had been charged with being associated with Communism. Now "the bogeyman" was that the C.C.F. was Fascist and meant regimentation.

Free enterprise meant unrestricted competition and great monopolies. It was a system that brought the great depression and 1,000,000 idle workers, leaving "physical and mental scars" which would never be removed.

He pictured Hon. R. G. Hanson (Progressive Conservative, York-Sudbury) as reminding him of King Canute standing on the seashore ordering the tide to go back. "He says 'Beware of the C.C.F.—they want to destroy things as they are.' We do not want to destroy things as they are. We want to change them so that we shall never go back to things as they were."

PRICES BOARD STAFF

OTTAWA, March 22 (CP).—At the end of January the total staff of the Prices Board numbered 4,621 persons, it was stated in a return tabled in the House of Commons today for T. L. Church (Progressive Conservative, Toronto Broadview).

BRITAIN TO HAVE FOUR-YEAR PLAN AFTER THE WAR

Churchill Proposes Council of Nations for Whole of Europe; Rebuilding World Giant Task

Prime Minister Confident of Future Prosperity of Empire

LONDON, March 21 (CP).—Following is the text of Prime Minister Churchill's address Sunday night: Let me first of all think the very great numbers of people who have made kind inquiries about me during my recent illness. Although for a week I had had a fairly stiff dose of fever which but for modern science might have had awkward consequences I wish to make it clear that I never for a moment had to relinquish the responsible direction of affairs. I followed attentively all the time what was happening in Parliament and the lively discussions on our home affairs when peace comes.

It was very clear to me that a good many people were so much impressed by the favorable turn in our fortunes which has marked the last six months that they have jumped to the conclusion that the war will soon be over and that we shall all be able to get back to the politics and party fights of peacetime.

I am not able to share these sanguine hopes and my earnest advice to you is to concentrate even more zealously upon the war effort and if possible not to take your eye off the ball even for a moment. If tonight I turn aside from the course of war and deal with some post-war and domestic issues it is only because I hope that by so doing I may be able to simplify and modify political divergencies and enable all our political forces to march forward to the main objectives in unity and so far as possible in step.

CARE NEEDED IN EXPENDITURES

First of all we must beware of attempts to over-persuade or even coerce His Majesty's Government to bind themselves or their unknown successors in conditions which no one can foresee and which may be years ahead, to impose great new expenditures on the State without any relation to circumstances which might prevail at that time and to make them pledge themselves to particular schemes without relation to other extremely important aspects of our post-war needs.

The business of proposing expenditure rests ultimately with the responsible government of the day and it is their duty, and their duty alone, to propose to Parliament any new charges upon the public and also propose the annual budgets and the means of raising necessary funds.

The world is coming increasingly to admire our British parliamentary system and ideas. It is contrary to those ideas that the ministers or members should become pledge-bound delegates. They are a band of men who undertake certain honorable duties and they would be dishonored if they allowed their right and duty to serve the public as well as possible on any given occasion to be prejudiced by enforced premature contraction of obligations.

NOT NECESSARY TO MAKE PROMISES

Nothing could be easier for me than to make any number of promises and get an immediate response of cheap cheers and glowing articles. I am not in any need to go about making promises in order to win political support or to be allowed to continue in office. It was on a grim and bleak basis that I undertook my present task and on that basis I have been given loyalty and support such as no Prime Minister has ever received.

I cannot express my feeling of gratitude to the nation for their kindness to me and for the trust and confidence they have placed in me during the long dark and disappointing periods.

I am absolutely determined not to falsify or mock that confidence by making promises without regard to whether they can be performed or not. At my time of life I have no personal ambitions or future to provide for. And I feel I can truthfully say that I only wish to do my duty by the whole mass of the nation and of the British Empire as long as I am thought to be of any use for that.

Therefore I tell you 'round your firesides that I am resolved not to give or to make all kinds of promises and tell all kinds of fairy-tales to you who have trusted me and gone with me so far and marched through the valley of shadow till we have reached the upland regions on which we now stand with firmly planted feet.

EVIL INTO DEATH, DUST AND ASHES

However, it is our duty to peer through the mists of the future to the end of the war and to try our utmost to be prepared by ceaseless effort and forethought for the kind of situations which are likely to occur. Speaking under every reserve and not attempting to prophesy, I can imagine that some time next year—but it may well be the year after—we might beat Hitler. By which I mean beat him and his powers of evil into death, dust and ashes.

Then we shall immediately proceed to transport all the necessary additional forces and apparatus to the other side of the world to punish the greedy, cruel Empire of Japan, to rescue China from her long torment, to free our own territory and that of our Dutch Allies and to drive the Japanese menace forever from the Australian, New Zealand and Indian shores. That will be our first and supreme task and nothing must lure us from it.

Nevertheless, in my opinion, the moment when Hitler is beaten and Germany and Italy are prostrate will mark the grand climax of war and that will be the time to make a new declaration upon the task before us. We and our Allies will have accomplished one great task, I repeat, one great task.

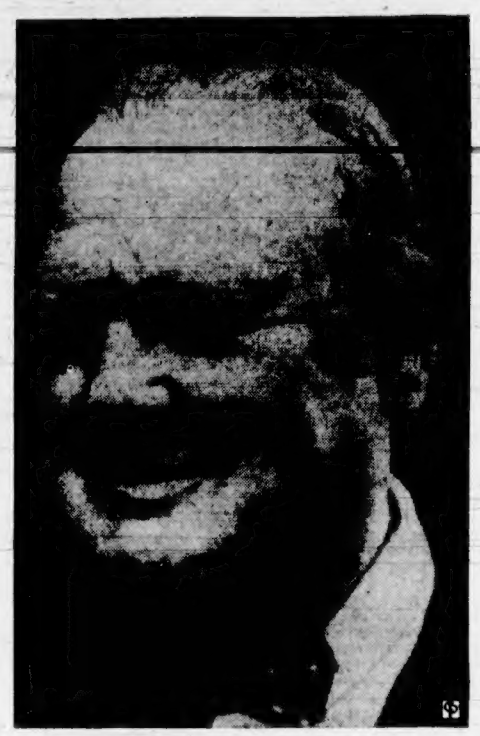
PRUSSIAN MILITARISM MUST GO FROM EARTH

Nazi tyranny and Prussian militarism, which threatened to engulf the whole world and against which we stood alone for a fateful year—these curses will have been swept from the face of the earth.

If I should be spared to see that day and should be needed at the helm at that time, I shall then with the assent of the Cabinet propose a new task to the British nation. The war against Japan will demand a very different arrangement of our forces from what exists at present. There will certainly be large numbers of British and also, no doubt, United States soldiers whom it will not be physically possible to employ across the vast distances and poor communications of the Japanese war.

There will certainly be large numbers of men not only abroad but at home who will have to be brought back to their families and to their jobs, or to other equally good jobs. For all these, after full provision has been made for the garrisoning of guilty countries, return to something like home and freedom will be their heart's desire. However vigorously the war against Japan is prosecuted, there will certainly be a partial demobilization following on the defeat of Hitler and this will raise the most difficult and intricate problems, and we are taking care in our arrangements to avoid the mistakes which were so freely committed last time.

Of course these ideas may be completely falsified by events. It may be that Japan will collapse before Hitler, in which case quite another layout will be necessary. As, however, many people wish ardently to discuss the future, I adopt for this purpose tonight what seems to me the most likely situation.



". . . I tell you 'round your firesides that I am resolved not to give or to make all kinds of promises and tell all kinds of fairy tales to you who have trusted me and gone with me so far and marched through the valley of shadow till we have reached the upland regions on which we now stand with firmly planted feet."

On this assumption, it would be our hope that the United Nations, headed by three great victorious powers, the British Commonwealth of Nations, the United States and Soviet Russia, should immediately begin to confer upon the future world organization, which is to be our safeguard against further wars, by effectually disarming and keeping disarmed the guilty states by bringing to justice the grand criminals and their accomplices and by securing the return to devastated and subjugated countries of mechanical resources and artistic treasures of which they have been pillaged.

We shall also have a heavy task in trying to avert widespread famine in some, at least, of the ruined regions. We must hope and pray that unity on the three leading victorious powers will be worthy of their supreme responsibility and that they will think not only of their own welfare but of the welfare and future of all. One can imagine that under a world institution embodying or representing the United Nations, and some day all the nations, there should come into being a Council of Europe and a Council of Asia.

COUNCIL OF EUROPE FIRST PRACTICAL TASK

As according to the forecast I am outlining the war against Japan will still be raging, it is upon the creation of the Council of Europe and the settlement of Europe that the first practical task will be centred. Now this is stupendous business. In Europe lie most of the causes which have led to these two World Wars. In Europe dwell historic parent races from whom our Western civilization has been so largely derived. I believe myself to be what is called a good European and I should deem it a noble task to take part in reviving and restoring the true greatness of Europe.

I hope we shall not lightly cast aside all the immense work which was accomplished by the creation of the League of Nations. Certainly we must take as our foundation of the lofty conception of freedom the law and morality which was the spirit of the League. We must try—I am speaking, of course, only for ourselves—to make the Council of Europe, or whatever it may be called, into a really effective league with all strongest forces concerned woven into its texture with a high court to adjust disputes and with forces, armed forces, national or international or both, held ready to enforce these decisions and prevent renewed aggression and preparation of future wars.

WORLD FEDERATION TO EMBRACE ALL

Anyone can see that this council, when created, must eventually embrace the whole of Europe and that all the main branches of the European family must some day be partners in it. What is to happen to the large number of small nations whose rights and interests must be safeguarded? Here let me ask what would be thought of an army that consisted only of battalions and brigades and which never formed any of the larger and high organizations like army corps? It would soon get mopped up. It would therefore seem to me at any rate worthy of patient study that side by side with the great powers there should be a number of groupings of states or confederations which would express themselves through their own chosen representatives, the whole making a council of great states and groups of states.

It is my earnest hope, though I can hardly expect to see it fulfilled in my lifetime, that we shall achieve the largest common measure of the integrated life of Europe that is possible without destroying the individual characteristics and traditions of its many ancient and historic races. All this will, I believe, be found to harmonize with the high permanent interests of Britain, the United States and Russia. It certainly cannot be accomplished without their cordial and concerted agreement and direct participation. Thus and thus only will the glory of Europe rise again.

TIME FOR ARGUMENTS WHEN BATTLES WON

I only mention these matters to you to show you the magnitude of the task that will lie before us in Europe and in Europe alone. Nothing could be more foolish at this stage than to plunge into details and try to prescribe the exact groupings of states or lay down precise machinery for their co-operation, or still more to argue about frontiers now while the war even in the west has not yet reached its full height, while struggle with U-boats is raging and when the war in the Far East is only in its first phase.

This does not mean that many tentative discussions are not taking place between the great nations concerned or that the whole vast problem of European destiny—for that is what I am speaking of now—is not a subject of ceaseless heart searchings.

We must remember, however, that we in Britain and the British Commonwealth of Nations, although almost a world in ourselves, will have to reach agreements with great and friendly equals and also to respect and have care for the rights of weaker and smaller states, and that it will not be given to any one nation to achieve full satisfaction of its individual wishes.

I have said enough, however, I am sure, to show you at least in outline the mystery and peril and, I will add, the splendor of this vast sphere of practical action into which we shall have to leap once the hideous spell of Nazi tyranny has been broken.

Coming nearer home we shall have to consider at the same time how the inhabitants of this island are going to get their living at this stage in the world story and how they are going to maintain and progressively improve their previous standards of life and labor.

FOUR-YEAR PLANNING FOR TRANSITION ERA

I am very much attracted to the idea that we should make and proclaim what might be called the four-years plan. Four years seem to be the right length for a period of transition and reconstruction which will follow the downfall of Hitler.

We have five-year Parliaments and the four-years plan would give time for preparation of a second plan. This four-years plan would cover five or six large measures of practical character which must all have been the subject of prolonged, careful, energetic preparation beforehand and which fit together into the general scheme.

When this plan has been shaped it will have to be presented to the country, either by the National Government, formally representative as this one is of the three parties in the State, or by a National Government comprising the best men in all parties who are willing to serve. I cannot tell how these matters will settle themselves. But by 1944 our present Parliament will have lived nine years, and by 1945 ten years, and as soon as the defeat of Germany has removed the danger now at our throats and the register can be compiled and other necessary arrangements made, the new House of Commons must be freely chosen by the whole electorate, including, of course, the armed forces, wherever they may be.

FUTURE GOVERNMENT GIVEN CLEAR POLICY

Thus, whoever is burdened with the responsibility of conducting affairs will have a clear policy and will be able to speak and act at least in the name of an effective and resolute majority. From what I have already said you will realize how very difficult and anxious this period will be and how much depends not only on our own action but on the action of other very powerful countries. This applies not only to the carrying to a conclusion of the war against Japan but also to the disarming of the guilty and to the settlement of Europe, not only to the arrangements for the prevention of further wars in order that the ruin of our wealth may be rapidly repaired, that employment and production shall be at a high level and that goods and services shall be interchanged between man and man, and between one nation and another under the best conditions and on the largest scale.

The difficulties which will confront us will take all our highest qualities to overcome. Let me, however, say straightaway that my faith in the vigor, ingenuity and resilience of the British race is invincible. Difficulties mastered are opportunities won. The day of Hitler's downfall will be a bright one for our country and for all mankind. Bells will clash their peals of victory and hope, and we will march forward together, encouraged, invigorated, and still, I trust, generally united upon a further journey.

INSURANCE SCHEME WOULD BE EXPANDED

I personally am very keen that the scheme for amalgamation and extension of our present incomparable insurance system should have a leading place in our four-years plan. I have been prominently connected with all these schemes of national compulsory, organized thrift from the time when I brought my friend Sir William Beveridge into public service thirty-five years ago, when I was creating labor exchanges on which he was a great authority, and when, with Sir Hubert Llewellyn Smith, I framed the first unemployment insurance scheme. The prime parent of all national insurance schemes is Mr. Lloyd George. I was his lieutenant in those distant days and afterwards it fell to me as the Chancellor of the Exchequer, eighteen years ago, to lower the pensions age to sixty-five and to bring in widows and orphans.

The times is now ripe for another great advance and anyone can see what large savings there will be in administration, once the whole process of insurance has become unified, compulsory and national.

Here is a real opportunity for what I once called "bringing the magic of averages to the rescue of millions." Therefore you must rank me and my colleagues as strong partisans of national compulsory insurance for all classes, for all purposes from the cradle to the grave.

Every preparation including, if necessary, a preliminary legislative preparation will be made with the utmost energy and the necessary negotiations to deal with the existing worthy interests are being pursued so that when the moment comes everything will be ready.

Here let me remark that the best way to insure against unemployment is to have no unemployment.

CANNOT HAVE BAND OF IDLE PEOPLES

There is another point. Unemployables, rich or poor, will have to be toned up. We cannot afford to have idle people. Idlers at the top make idlers at the bottom. No one must stand aside in his working prime to pursue a life of selfish pleasure.

There are wasters in all classes. Happily they are only a small minority in every class, but anyhow we cannot have a band of drones in our midst, whether they come from the ancient aristocracy or the modern plutocracy, or the ordinary type of pub crawler.

There are other large matters which will also have to be dealt with in our four-years plan upon which thought, study and discussion are advancing rapidly.

Let me take first of all the question of British agriculture.

We have, of course, to purchase a large proportion of our food and vital raw materials overseas. Our foreign investments have been expended in the common cause. The British nation that has now once again saved the freedom of the world has grown great on cheap and abundant food. Had it not been for the free-trade policy of Victorian days, our population would never have risen to the level of a great power and we might have gone down the drain with many other minor states, to the disaster of the whole world.

Abundant food has brought our 47,000,000 Britons into the world. Here they are and they must find their living.

It is absolutely certain that we shall have to grow a larger proportion of our food at home.

AGRICULTURE WILL HAVE ITS PLACE

During the war immense advances have been made by the agricultural industry. The position of the farmers has been improved, the position of laborers immeasurably improved. The efficient agricultural landlord has an important part to play. I hope to see a vigorous revival of healthy village life on the basis of these higher wages and of improved housing, and what with modern methods of locomotion and the modern amusements of the cinema and wireless, to which will soon be added television, life in the country and on the land ought to compete in attractiveness with life in the great cities.

But all this would cost money. When the various handicaps of war conditions are at an end I expect that better national housekeeping will be possible and that as a result of technical improvements in British agriculture the strain upon the state will be relieved.

At the same time, the fact remains that if expansion and improvement of British agriculture is to be maintained, as it must be maintained, and a reasonable level of prices is to be maintained, as it must be maintained, there are likely to be substantial charges which the state must be prepared to shoulder.

Next there is the spacious domain of public health. I was brought up on the maxim of Lord Beaconsfield which my father was always repeating: "Health and laws of health." We must establish on broad and solid foundations a national health service.

Here let me say that there is no finer investment for any community than putting milk into babies. Healthy citizens are the greatest asset any country can have. One of the most sombre anxieties which beset those who look thirty or forty or fifty years ahead, and in the field one can see ahead only too clearly, is a dwindling birthrate in thirty years. Unless present trends alter, a smaller working and fighting population will have to support and protect nearly twice as many old people; in fifty years the position will be worse still. If this country is to keep its high place in the leadership of the world and to survive as a great power that can hold its own against external pressure, our people must be encouraged by every means to have larger families.

HEALTH, EDUCATION . . IMPORTANT FACTORS

For this reason, well-thought-out plans for helping parents to contribute this lifespring to the community are of prime importance. Care of the young and establishment of sound hygienic conditions of motherhood have a bearing upon the whole future of the race which is absolutely vital. Side by side with that is war upon disease, which so far as it is successful will directly aid the national insurance scheme. Upon all this, planning is vigorously proceeding.

Following upon health and welfare is the question of education. The future of the world is left to highly-educated races who alone can handle the scientific apparatus necessary for pre-eminence in peace or survival in war. I hope our education will become broader and more liberal. All wisdom is not new wisdom and the past should be studied if the future is to be successfully encountered. To quote Disraeli again in one of his most pregnant sayings, "Nations are governed by force or by tradition." In moving steadily and steadfastly from a class to a national foundation in politics and economics of our society and civilization, we must not forget the glories of the past nor how many battles we have fought for the rights of the individual and for human freedom.

We must beware of trying to build a society in which nobody counts for anything except the politician or official, a society where enterprise gains no reward and thrift no privileges. I say, "Try to build" because of all the races in the world our people would be the last to consent to be governed by bureaucracy. Freedom is their life blood. These two great wars, scourging and harrowing men's souls, have made the British nation the master of its own house. The people have been rendered conscious that they are coming into their inheritance.

EMPIRE FITTED FOR ITS RESPONSIBILITY

The treasures of past toil of centuries-long, built-up conceptions of decent government and fair play and tolerance, which comes from the free working of the parliamentary and electoral institutions and great colonial possessions for which we are trustees in every part of the globe—all these constitute parts of this inheritance and the nation must be fitted for its responsibilities and the high duty human beings are endowed with, infinitely varying qualities and dispositions, and each one is different from the other. We cannot make them all the same. It would be a pretty dull world if we did.

It is in our power, however, to secure equal opportunities for all. Facilities for advanced education must be evened out and multiplied. Nobody who can take advantage of

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE QUICKLY AND EASILY
If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.
For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from Modern Pharmacy and Cunningham Drug Stores or any druggist and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.
If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money. (Adv.)

A POSTWAR VISION

Mr. Winston Churchill, in his Sunday broadcast, dealt in large measure with those principles that must govern conditions after the war in their application to the making of a better world. It was a magnificent review of basic considerations that are necessary for what has now come to be regarded as social security. The Prime Minister, however, made it clear that the main task at the present time is victory over aggression and he made it patent, as well, that concentration on this purpose could be weakened by too much planning for and too much attention being paid to the aftermath of the war. Another point to which he drew attention is the necessity of knowing what conditions will prevail after victory before security can be based on any solid platform. Those conditions no one can know at this time.

Mr. Churchill is a master of the logical marshalling of facts that have a bearing one on the other in any given or prospective situation. In Sunday's review he dealt with practically every aspect that must be considered in planning for the future. He enunciated principles affecting agriculture, finance, housing, trade, national insurance, currency, relief in the matter of taxation after the war; he even took occasion to point to the supreme necessity of religious education in the schools and of the value of improved education as a whole. He spoke of fears as well as hopes respecting the years to come. He issued a warning about the present optimism among the United Nations on the basis of their having turned from the defensive to the offensive. He cannot share the character of hope that is held in this regard, especially that which envisions possibility that the struggle will be over during the current year. He spoke in this vein to warn the Allied Nations to allow no let-up in concentrating on their war effort, and, in the sporting parlance he employed, "to keep their eye on the ball." In the way of prophecy all be ventured to say was that next year, "or it may be the year after," we shall beat Hitler and that then energies must be bent to the defeat of Japan and the freeing of China from Japanese aggression.

Mr. Churchill's postwar vision affecting the principles of social security was, as he pointed out, dependent on international relationships, and he made a plea for a continuation of that unity now being shown in the war effort of the United Nations when the time comes to decide the course that peace should take. He spoke of a council of Europe and a council of Asia. No delusions obsess him about "the mystery, the peril and the splendor" of the task ahead when Hitlerism has been defeated. It is axiomatic, therefore, that throughout his speech there should have been a note of warning. His answer to those critics of his Government because the findings of the Beveridge Report are not being put into effect immediately in their entirety requires no comment. There is nothing that should be made binding on the British Government in any desire to cope with conditions which no one can foresee. In other words, the character of the victory to be is as yet unknown. It is impossible to build a permanent structure upon foundations that, in their mental and material character, still remain only a matter of speculation.

Mr. Churchill, in his latest broadcast, has demonstrated again how great a realist he is and how he can bring the compelling force of logic to bear on his utterances. There was outright common sense running through all he had to say and the actualities he voiced cannot but serve as a warning to all others who speak in grandiloquent strain and in the textbook phrases of wishful thinking about how they would mould the future. That future will be what it is allowed to be through the character of international relationships. That is why Great Britain's Prime Minister pleaded for a continuation of the unity of purpose that is being shown in the war into the upland paths of peace, and particularly in the oneness of purpose that now governs the cooperation of the British Empire, the United States and Russia.

THE LIQUOR MUDDLE

We would remind the Dominion Government again that no mandate has been given by the people for total prohibition in Canada, and that total prohibition has already been proved on this continent to be a total failure, a bonanza for the bootlegger. Whether the Mackenzie King Administration wishes to recognize the facts or not, the present situation is a step on the road towards prohibition, and it has already caused much harm in the several provinces. In British Columbia, the result of the Federal quota regulation has been confusion, and the interference with legitimate trading at liquor vendors' stores.

To begin with, nothing has occurred in the fourth year of the war to change the importation of wine or spirits from what pertained in the third year of the war. Neither has there been a domestic shortage per se, except in so far as the transfer of population created gaps at some points. The Government's action to declare a retroactive quota curtailing consumption by from 10 to 30 per cent, came without warning and out of the blue. By declaring army, navy and air force canteens as part of the civilian quota further confusion was engendered. Under these conditions British Columbia's system of liquor control has completely broken down.

Though it took a roundabout means to do so, Ottawa is now saying to the shipyard worker, the munition factory hand, to war workers generally, to the army, navy and air force canteens—and there are 100 of them in this Province—and to the public, that they cannot have light wines or beer. Because that is what the Federal regulations mean when applied in British Columbia now. There is not enough to go around.

Where beer is concerned, the shortage is entirely artificial. It was made at Ottawa. Ottawa has refused permits for the release of sufficient stocks from the breweries to meet domestic needs. Such a policy reacts on the hop growers of the Fraser Valley—who were encouraged to extend their acreage—and against everyone. If men cannot get beer they turn to stronger beverages, those that will not be so good for them. Now we are told that by May 1 the Province may have to impose liquor rationing, although "the amount available for anyone will be very small." So the muddle will be worse confounded. Meanwhile there is a brisk black market sale of Government liquor permits, proxy buying and the return of the bootlegger to his old-time haunts. Where was Mr. King's mandate for that? There was none.

OVER $23,000,000

There is one aspect of the National Health Insurance plan, proposed by Mr. Ian Mackenzie, Federal Minister of Pensions and Health, that needs some explanation. As he, or someone else on his behalf, has worked out this plan it would mean an annual expenditure of $234,000,000, but on top of this must be set a sum of $23,290,000 "for administration." The plan, therefore, as well as being designed to improve prospects for the health of the people as a whole, has as an object the establishment of a considerable addition to the ranks of civil servants, who will likely enough operate as a bureaucracy similar to the Wartime Prices and Trade Board or the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

The merits or demerits of the proposed health insurance cannot be estimated at the present time. The fate of the scheme would lie in the hands of the doctors and hospitals, not in those of the politicians. Now, however, at the very inception of such a programme as is outlined, it is pertinent to inquire why its administration, in a political sense, should cost nearly ten per cent of the total outlay that is proposed. This estimate is rankly extravagant and would prove a very substantial instalment of the "New Bureaucracy" under which the people are groaning at the present time, and which they only bear at all because they have been persuaded, rightly or wrongly, that the multiplication of officialdom is necessary to the war effort. There is the paradox that it is the wiping out of the regimentation of lives by bureaucratic control that is one of the objects of this war, while at the same time such regimentation is spreading among the United Nations and sapping the roots of freedom itself. This is not to say that health insurance cannot be planned to bring about the desired results. The point is that it should not impose an abnormal cost on the taxpayers for administration and for the glorification of political appointees. The cost proposed by Mr. Mackenzie seems altogether out of reason.

SPRING

By the calendar it is Spring, which opened officially on Sunday. By the heavens also it is Spring. Orion is sinking in the West, the Big Dipper is turning over, and Whipple's Comet is receding fast from human sight. It is Spring, too, in hedgerow and thicket, clothed miraculously in lincoln green. It is Spring at the tips of the chestnut trees, along hawthorn boulevards, and with the first wild fruits, already in blossom. It is Spring in the brown earth, where life is stirring.

Whatever man's alarms, Nature will take her world and clothe it afresh. Fat trout in mountain streams will find their food coming to them again in the swirling waters. Flickers will shrill their nesting call in many a pine-clad gorge. Inches deep under wet moss, insects will run in their green-vaulted caverns. In the clearings, the meadow larks will pipe all of their anthems, one more beautiful than the other. The dun pheasant will weave her nest in grass; while nearby her mate, the lordly cock, will strut as if he owned the forest. Strollers will pause under an amber moon to watch sentinel firs stand guard upon the hill.

Up out of the soil comes the new life of Spring. Deep in the ground, made pliable by frost and rain, the warmth will return. Fast from its roots rushes the sap of the tree, feeding its every part. Seemingly from nowhere, Nature produces her gayest, freshest cloak. Even in man, the laggard, something is stirring. Ahead once more he sees hope and life restored. The terrors of Winter are behind him. A new season, perhaps a new world, is at hand. Majestic in their velvet darkness, the stars turn on, counting the aeons from dawn to infinity; but even they pause to proclaim it is Spring. Twilight and the carolling missel thrush confirm the verdict.

FROM THE GOLDEN BOOKS
Spirit of Sadness

She loved the Autumn, I the Spring,
Sad all the songs she loved to sing,
And in her face was strangely set
Some great inherited regret.

Some look in all things made her sigh,
Yea! sad to her the morning sky:
"So sad! so sad its beauty seems"—
I hear her say it still in dreams.

But when the day grew grey and old,
And rising stars shone strange and cold,
Then only in her face I saw
A mystic glee, a joyous awe.

Spirit of Sadness, in the spheres
Is there an end of mortal tears?
Or is there still in those great eyes
That look of lonely hills and skies?

—By Richard Le Gallienne.

England hath had experience of the blessing of God in prosecuting just and righteous causes, whatever the cost and hazard be. And if ever men were engaged in a righteous cause in the world, this will scarce be a second to it. We are come to ask an account of the innocent blood which hath been shed; and to endeavor to bring to an account (by the blessing and the presence of the Almighty, in whom alone is our home and strength) all who by appearing in arms, seek to justify the same.—Cromwell.

It is not true that a man can believe or disbelieve what he will. But it is certain that an active desire to find any proposition true will unconsciously tend to that result, by dismissing importunate suggestions which run counter to the belief, and welcoming those which favor it. The psychological law, that we only see what interests us, and only assimilate what is adapted to our condition, causes the mind to select its evidence.—G. H. Lewes.

Let us do our duty in our shop or our kitchen, the market, the streets, the office, the school, the home, just as faithfully as if we stood in the front rank of some great battle, and we knew that victory for mankind depended upon our bravery, strength and skill. When we do that the humblest of us will be serving in that great army which achieves the welfare of the world.—Theodore Parker.

On every occasion a man should ask himself: "Is this one of the unnecessary things?" Now a man should take away not only unnecessary acts, but also unnecessary thoughts, for thus superfluous acts will not follow after.—Marcus Aurelius: Meditations iv, 24.

The custom and fashion of today will be the awkwardness and outrage of tomorrow. So arbitrary are these transient laws.—Dumas.

THE WEEK

Western Front—Martial law was declared in Essen, after Royal Air Force bombers had laid much of the Krupp plant in blackened ruins. The United States Army Air Corps, warming to the attack, carried out its greatest raid of the war, visiting a submarine plant at Vegesack, fifteen miles from Bremen. The United States machines fought their way through a German cover of seventy-five enemy fighters and downed twenty-five of these, losing two bombers in the heavy attack. Elsewhere in the week, Paderborn, Rouen, Rennes, Louvain and Leer were bombed; some by day with low-flying Mosquitos, and others by night with the heaviest type of machines. The Luftwaffe replied in scattered raids on the southeast coast, losing four bombers out of twenty-five attacking on one occasion. Some miscellaneous damage was caused, but British casualties were light. During the moon's height, Germany and the occupied coast across the Channel were visited by Allied machines on six out of the seven nights, followed by day sweeps of sustained proportions, in at least one of which 1,000 machines drove to the attack of enemy positions in full sunlight. Germany claimed a success in the Atlantic shipping lanes, where an Allied convoy was followed for seventy-two hours in a running fight with a pack of submarines. Three of the undersea vessels were sunk by the convoy's escort, and an unstated number of cargo ships were lost on our side. The crews of several vessels were picked up and landed later at Allied ports. As tension mounted, rioting broke out at several points in Europe, with repressions and executions reported upon a massed scale. Speaking on Sunday, Mr. Churchill dealt mainly with postwar affairs. He visioned the peace as something to be worked out between nation and nation around the world, with the lessons from the League of Nations applied. He counselled in favor of an amalgamation of lesser European states, under their own autonomy, so that in world counsels areas of equal importance and size would speak together on a level plane. For Great Britain, herself, he recalled the growth and development that had followed free trade; pointed to the world-curative properties of work, and declared there would be few places for drones in the postwar world. It was a speech of breadth and of vision, and one that was well received throughout the world.

Eastern Front — Slowed in their main offensive, Russian forces seemed to have taken the measure of the German counter-attack in the Kharkov-Donets zone. Firmly planted on the north bank of the Donets, they repelled incessant German attacks, mounted with tanks, planes and infantry. At one point the Russians crossed the Donets and forced a bridgehead on the southern bank. Despite that, the German effort was still being pressed, both in the region southeast of Kharkov and also at Bryansk in the Orel sector. On their part, the Russians made fresh gains in the Vyazma section of the Smolensk zone; south of Lake Ilmen, and towards Staraya Russa, and also in the Kuban Valley of the Northwestern Caucasus. Changing weather interfered with ground action at several points. In the Ukraine the German counter was still menacing. On balance, however, the Russians had lost only fractionally from their deep gains of their Winter return, and were holding the enemy on a line roughly midway between the Dnieper and the Don. There was fresh evidence of heavy German reinforcements thrown into the fight, one which in essence has prevented the enemy from establishing a new line on the Eastern Front.

In the Near East — Despite fluky weather and some local setbacks, the Allied position improved materially in Tunisia. Struggle as he would, Rommel was being gradually hemmed in between two sizable forces, both eager for the battle that is to come. Recovery by United States troops of Gafsa and Guetar, on the road to Gabes, was a tactical victory for the Allies, and a fresh threat to the Axis Desert Corps, penned now to the region of the Mareth Line. There, German and Italian levies were under pressure from the British Eighth Army, which brought up siege cannon and turned a mounting weight of fire on the enemy's positions. Allied air cover was active, and dominant in the whole region. To the northwest of the Mareth Line, French troops had taken up a firm position on the rear flank of Rommel. Far to the north, the British First Army had recovered Axis infiltrations, and seemed about ready for its forward drive, when the rains—now lessening—cease. On the outcome of the next round may depend whether or not Von Arnim and Rommel will be separated in the main action, which seems near. In this, the Allied drive to Guetar appeared the most significant gain of the week. Further afield in the campaign, Allied airplanes kept watch over the Strait of Messina, and harried enemy communications generally. Muddy roads were retarding field action in the north, with dust storms encountered in the south as the period ended.

Middle East—In the Burma campaign, a strong Japanese counter-attack had been met, and stopped in the region northwest of Akyab. Of Akyab and nearby Japanese field bases there was little left, after consistently heavy bombing. Rails, roads and river traffic feeding the Japanese lines were harried, and several bridges cut in the Mandalay-Moulmein section of the interior. Actual field action seemed confined to the Rathedaung area, where, however, the Japanese counter-attack was brought to a sudden stop, with losses to the enemy. British infiltration continued.

In the Far East — The Chinese, fighting tenaciously, reported the collapse of an eight-column Japanese attack along the line of the Yangtse Valley, after slight ground had changed hands. The drive spread over several provinces, and was being renewed in Hupeh Province as the period ended. At many points, the Chinese defenders had wrested back ground lost in the main enemy drive; and appeared to have exhausted the attackers by swift counter-thrusts, now against one column and then against another. Chungking reported that the weight of the Japanese thrust was lessening, after continued enemy reverses in the field. In the Southwestern Pacific there was an uneasy lull in field action. Further Japanese attempts to reinforce New Guinea were repulsed, and at least two minor convoys were trapped by air attack and driven back on their bases. Rabaul, Lae and Salamaua were bombed heavily by our side, and Allied machines also ranged over a wider area after Japanese vessels had been found off the Aroe Islands and elsewhere. There was a sharp attempt to counter-raid Port Darwin, by Japanese bombers with a strong fighter escort, but this was turned back and the escort roughly handled. Allied communiques reported consistent Japanese infiltration into the main archipelago northwest and northeast of Australia; but added that all enemy concentrations so far had been successfully broken up. On New Guinea itself, the Allied position had been strengthened considerably, after the defeat of the enemy in the last decisive clash in the Bismarck Sea. In Tokio nerves were in evidence, with some further centralization of civil power in army hands . . . The week closed with a forward surge by the British Eighth Army against the Mareth Line, where first objectives were quickly taken; the United Nations on the aggressive everywhere, and the calendar turning into Spring.

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

To find the depth of water on the sill at the Esquimalt Drydock at any tide, add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

Britons Calmly Wait—Although a battle is being fought which is likely to develop into the greatest struggle of modern history, and perhaps settle the result of the war, the English people preserve the same quiet calm they have worn for the past four years. There are no signs of unusual excitement or nervousness in London, no crowds outside the newspaper offices or elsewhere. The Germans have talked so freely about their great offensive that many people thought they were making a feint to conceal some other policy. Extensive preparations have been made by the British hospitals to receive the trains of wounded from Channel ports, and long lines of ambulances have been forming at the Charing Cross railway station.

SENATOR BALL'S RESOLUTION

The most peculiar thing about the political developments around the resolution introduced on Tuesday into the Senate by Senator Joseph H. Ball is the attitude of the Administration towards it.

One would have thought that the Administration would welcome it heartily. Since it originated in the Senate itself, from a bi-partisan group, it is in no sense an Administration measure foisted upon the legislators. But since the resolution represents a move on the part of its framers to collaborate actively in what has been apparently the foreign policy of the United States, a blessing from the Administration was to be expected.

It has been said that the President fears a repetition of Wilson's fate, with the result that again any possibility of creating an international order with American collaboration would be sabotaged.

Senator Ball's reslution is an attempt to prevent just this. Associated with Senator Ball are his Republican colleague, Senator Harold H. Burton, and Senators Carl Hatch and Lister Hill, Democrats. All four are notable for the statesmanlike stand they have taken on foreign policy.

The resolution, if passed, would bring about a relaxation abroad of the uncertainties that exist regarding the continuity of American foreign policy, and would constitute a great service to our cause.

NOT A SUBSTITUTE FOR FOREIGN POLICY

It is an instrument by which the Senate—which, in the long run, has the last word anyhow—can collaborate continually with the Administration in the formulating of our policy from day to day. Such a resolution is no substitute for foreign diplomacy, or the conclusion of agreements, but it supports the hands of the Administration in such negotiations, giving the President and the State Department the security of knowing that if they reach agreements along the lines suggested by the Senate, they will have its approval.

What the four Senators have suggested represents, I venture to say, a summary of what an overwhelming majority of American public opinion, of all parties, believes to be necessary.

Certainly nobody will object to the suggestion that we "take the initiative" in trying to form an organization of the United Nations "with specific and limited authority."

Certainly no one will object to point one, to assist in co-ordinating and fully utilizing our combined military and economic forces. Nor to point two, to establish temporary administrations for Axis-controlled areas . . . as these are occupied by United Nations forces, until such time as permanent governments can be established. Such administrations will obviously be unavoidable, and the War Department is already concerned with planning them.

The third point is hardly debatable: "To administer relief and assistance in economic rehabilitation," and certainly everybody heartily favors the fourth point, "to establish procedures and machinery for the peaceful settlement of disputes between nations."

The fifth point alone may be debatable in its present form: "To provide for the assembly and maintenance of a United Nations military force to suppress by its immediate use any future attempt at military aggression."

This would put the Senate on record as favoring some sort of international police force, provided we can agree satisfactorily about it with the other United Nations. If there is any reason why we should not at least attempt to do this it is not clear to me, nor will it be, I think, to any overwhelming majority of American opinion.

CAN EXPECT OPPOSITION

One can expect opposition from men like Senator Wheeler, who having once taken a position harden on it in self-justification. There are a few Republicans who may continue to try to make political capital out of foreign policy. But the sentiment of the nation, Republican and Democratic, is against this. Whatever our internal differences may be, the people know we must present a united front to the outside world.

I have enough confidence in the statesmanship of the Senate to believe that two-thirds of its members feel the same way. At any rate, an enormous responsibility rests upon the Senate under conditions in which a fraction over a third of it, representing less than one-tenth of the American people, can sabotage war and peace.

Therefore, the non-committal attitude of the Administration is not understandable. The President must welcome this resolution as a strengthening of American diplomacy. Yet he permits the public to be confused regarding his attitude. This creates the impression that he wishes foreign policy to be an Administration monopoly, or that he is afraid of the Senate.

Senator Connally is equivocal, and the charge is hurled that he is peeved because the resolution does not bear his imprimatur, or, disclosure, that he is speaking for the Administration. The first charge is an injustice to an elder statesman who is certainly above such pettiness, and the second cannot be true.

The time has come to stand up and be counted. The Administration ought to take a clear stand. So ought the American public—to bolster up the political courage that seems to be lacking all around, in the Senate and in the Administration.

CHLORINATED WATER

Sir,—The Daily Colonist on Friday made a grand effort to arouse Victorians out of their apathy concerning the menace of chlorination. I expected a storm of protests to appear in your columns against the proposed contamination of our beautiful and exceptional water supply, but not a line has appeared, nor will people realize how odious the water will be until too late.

There are hundreds of people who drink this water for pleasure, particularly in the heat of Summer. Hundreds drink it for health and many are ordered by doctors to drink from six to eight glassfuls a day for nervous and other disorders. None of these people will trouble to protest against chlorination until they have drunk several glassfuls of disinfected water and feel definitely sick and unwell, as I have, after a long drink of chlorinated water. Chlorine is an extremely strong disinfectant, causing many to have indigestion, nor will it be only in the plain glass of water, but in every cup of tea or coffee, and in soups and vegetables.

Before the good Vancouver water was thus poisoned, members of the council were handed various glasses of water as a test. Some were chlorinated, some not. Probably they only sipped it and affirmed that they could taste no difference. Very likely not, since they had probably completely coarsened their palates, the lining of their stomachs and their digestions already with highly flavored dishes, rank tobacco and endless cocktails and strong drinks. Probably they hardly ever use water, except for an occasional bath! For those who are sensitive to water it will prove quite another matter. Surely some influential Victorians will come to our rescue and save us from having chlorination "foisted upon Greater Victoria, somewhat mysteriously and all unexplained."

A SUGGESTION

Sir,—With a view to reducing the length of the queue which is daily in evidence outside the liquor stores in this city, and in order to accelerate the work of the employees at the counter, I would suggest that the Liquor Control Board should arrange for the sale, at certain specified hours, or days, of beer only, and, at certain specified times, the sale of spirits and wine only.

This arrangement would ensure that those wishing to purchase hard liquor would not line up with the beer purchasers and vice versa. Moreover, the work of the employees at the liquor stores would be accelerated and simplified if they had to concentrate in handing out to purchasers one type of liquor only.

The present system seems clumsy and overlapping, and causes a good deal of waste time and exasperation to the public.

I offer the suggestion for what it may be worth.

DOGS AND VICTORY GARDENS

Sir,—An announcement was made over the radio the other day that in America all dogs must be kept on their owners' premises and only taken out when on a leash, otherwise they would be regarded as trespassers. This law, to come in effect at once, is passed to protect the Victory gardens. Such a law should certainly be passed here. Many people found it was just a waste of time attempting gardens for they were ruined time after time by the dogs running loose wherever they please. There are admirable people who keep their dogs always on their own premises, but others rarely if ever see theirs for the reason that they are in the gardens of one neighbor or another being a nuisance in more ways than one.

Persons who have no fences around their gardens should not be allowed to keep dogs. Dogs should not be permitted to run anywhere there are rows and rows of houses. Some years ago one did not see so many of them around but as there are more than twice the number of houses than there were about seven years ago there are in consequence many more dogs.

An American visitor said to me: "If the name of this Island is changed why not call it 'Dog Island,' or 'Island of Dogs?' for in all my life I have never seen so many on the loose." Another visitor said, "I came to this Island because I heard it was so peaceful, but never have I slept so badly night after night because of barking dogs."

There is not a single page of history which does not contain a conscious or unconscious falsehood. We are conditioned to hate almost from the cradle. Every six months or so I would take all the school children of Europe to the nearest frontier. According to Culbertson - - -

It is to be feared that most bridge players do not know what constitutes brilliance in their favorite game. They seem to feel that unless declarer produces some highly complicated coup or squeeze, he has merely turned in a routine job. Nothing could be farther from the truth. A brilliant performance may consist of as simple a play as South made in the following deal.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♥ Q 5 3 2
♣ 10 7 3

WEST
♠ K 10 8 4
♥ K J 9
♦ J 7 5 3 2

EAST
♠ 6 7 2
♥ 7 6 4
♦ A K 6
♣ K 6 5 4

SOUTH
♠ J
♥ A 10 8
♦ Q 10 9 8
♣ A Q J 9 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

North's two heart bid was questionable at best, and South's jump to three no trump was a bit strong, but we should be grateful for this sequence of bids in that it provided a contract that tested South's mettle.

West opened his fourth highest diamond, the three spot. East won with the king, cashed the ace, and returned the six. On the second round West followed suit with the deuce, thereby revealing a five card suit, and declarer, convinced that it would be futile to play the diamond 10, won the third trick with the queen. A count of tricks disclosed that even if the club suit could be brought home without loss, declarer would need two spade tricks to round out his contract, inasmuch as he could scarcely hope to establish a second heart trick without letting West in to cash his remaining diamonds. Thus, although declarer had only a singleton spade, he promptly took the finesse. That is, he intended to take the finesse, but actually West covered the jack and forced dummy's ace. Now, since there was no assurance that he would be able to return to dummy, declarer cashed the spade queen.

So far, declarer's play had been truly routine, but at the next trick he proved his right to the title of expert. Just as any lesser player would do, he led the club 10 from dummy for the finesse, but when East played low, this declarer did not follow suit with the card that would have been in almost every other player's fingers! He did not toss in the club deuce. With full appreciation of the possibilities of the situation, South played the club nine on dummy's 10. To his great gratification, the eight spot dropped from West. Now, when the club seven was played from dummy, East again ducking, declarer had the deuce left in his hand and, by playing it, could stay in dummy for the vital third club lead.

It will be seen that if declarer had casually followed suit to the club 10 with his own deuce, the contract would have been irretrievably lost.

Will Ask for House Ruling on West Grain Pool Taxation

C.C.F. Member Declares Impost Would Cost Farmers $5,000,000 Every Year

OTTAWA, March 22 (CP).—Rev. T. C. Douglas (C.C.F., Weyburn) said in the House of Commons today that his party would seek a vote at the present session on a ruling that Western wheat pools are liable to income tax.

He said this ruling, if made retroactive, would cost Western farmers $5,000,000, and if it were contested, [illegible] of fighting the case in court.

(A Government reply tabled in the House today informed Mr. Douglas that the wheat pools had been held liable for taxation by a Justice Department ruling which [illegible] under legislation covering co-operatives).

Mr. Douglas said that two years ago a campaign had been started by a number of Eastern newspapers, including The Financial Post and Canadian Business, asking why the pools were not paying income tax.

The Government had "yielded," said Mr. Douglas. The pools were to be taxed under excess profits and income tax legislation.

"If this Government is as sympathetic to the welfare of co-operatives as the member for Swift Current (Roy T. Graham, Liberal) would have us believe they were, then all they have to do is amend the Income War Tax Act to see it covers the wheat pools as co-operatives," said Mr. Douglas.

FARMERS NEVER AGAINST TAXATION

The wheat pools and the farmers who belonged to them had never objected to taxes but what they had said was that the proceeds, generally called patronage dividends, were not dividends in the ordinary sense of the word but earnings which came back to people who owned and patronized the pool marketing and storage facilities.

(The reply given Mr. Douglas said that it was felt desirable that the question of facts and the law pertinent to the liability of the wheat pools for tax be brought before the courts for investigation and final determination.

(The Justice Department had advised that the most practical method of getting these matters before the courts was to assess the pools so they might appeal from such assessment in the usual way.

("It is the intention of the Government to make such assessments and if appeals are made by the taxpayers, the Government will be prepared to discuss with the representatives of these corporations (the pools) such arrangements as may be necessary to provide that the costs of such appeals to the corporations will not be greater than would be occasioned to them by a reference to the courts by the Government itself," said the reply.)

Mr. Douglas said he contended that as co-operatives the wheat pools should enjoy exemption from taxation.

He understood the pools had offered to handle only the grain delivered by members and turn over the entire proceeds of their work for non-members to the Government.

SAYS CO-OPERATIVES WILL BE THREATENED

"This is only the thin edge of the wedge," said Mr. Douglas. "If this goes on, every co-operative organization in Canada will be threatened."

It was time for the co-operatives to know who supported them and who opposed them, and the C.C.F. would be glad to have Liberal members express their support of co-operatives.

"There is no better way to have trouble in Western Canada than by taking this action (of taxing the pools)," said Mr. Douglas.

"We will give them (Liberal members) an opportunity for casting their votes on his question before the end of the session."

Dr. T. F. Donnelly (Lib., Wood Mountain) said that in 1930 a Liberal Government had allowed taxation exemptions for co-operatives. No true co-operatives were taxed. It had been suggested for some time that wheat pools were not true co-operatives and this was the reason for proposed taxation of them.

M. A. MacPherson, of Regina, acting as a pool solicitor, had given evidence that the pool acted as an ordinary elevator company.

The pools paid tax to the provinces. Co-operatives in United Kingdom paid taxes.

"I challenge anyone to tell me how pool elevators operating in the country differ from other elevators," said Dr. Donnelly.

ACCOUNT FOR THIRTY-TWO PLANES

Members of the crew of a United States battleship hold up their fingers to signify the number of Japanese planes their big battle wagon has blasted out of the sky in the Southwest Pacific. In addition to the thirty-two planes accounted for, the battleship has sunk three Japanese cruisers. A navy artist has done an artistic commemoration of this feat on the gun panel in the background.

Canadian Scottish Reunion Planned

An invitation is extended to all who can qualify, to join the association.

Russians Advance

and captured south of Bely, despite defences of tanks dug into the earth and artillery and mortar batteries, the Russians said.

The Berlin radio acknowledged that the Russians had made a "local breach in the German defence lines due west of Moscow."

Russian and German reports both indicated little change on the Donets front to the south, where the Soviets appeared to be holding against the German counter-offensive that had retaken Kharkov and swept the Soviets back to the Donets River.

DRIVE SOON TO BE AT STANDSTILL

The Nazi drive in the Donets Basin "will soon come to a standstill, because all coming operations will be subject to the laws of the season," one German commentator said in a broadcast heard by C.B.S. in New York. He referred to the Spring thaw.

The German military commentator, Ludwig Sertorius, claimed in a broadcast that the "western bank of the Donets from Chuguev to east of Belgorod is firmly in German hands," and that the brunt of the German counter-offensive "has shifted to the area of Kursk."

The Soviet midnight communique said Red Army troops are holding near Belgorod, between Kursk and Kharkov, and that German attacks with tanks and motorized troops seeking to crack the new Russian lines at Belgorod had failed. The Russians announced the recapture of Belgorod by the Germans last night.

The Germans suffered heavy losses in their Belgorod attacks today, the communique said, and an entire battalion of Nazis were wiped out in one sector.

Sertorius declared one German objective is to iron out a bulge which the Russians had forced west of Kursk, and that the attack was gaining ground.

RUSSIANS BRING UP RESERVES

Sertorius declared the Russians were bringing up reserves from the front west of Rostov and from the Middle Donets area to throw into the battles near Kursk, but said that German planes were harassing these columns.

The Russians mentioned new fighting west of Rostov, declaring that a German attack in one sector there was thrown back with 100 of the enemy killed.

Soviet aircraft, ranging over various sectors on Sunday, destroyed or damaged about twenty German tanks and more than 100 trucks loaded with troops and supplies, besides blowing up six ammunition dumps and silencing ten field and anti-aircraft batteries, the midnight war bulletin said.

Floods in South

NEW ORLEANS, March 22 (AP).—Flooding waters of a dozen rivers, from Georgia to Louisiana, inundated thousands of acres of farm lands and halted traffic in some regions but damage and loss of property was expected to be relatively light.

The United States Weather Bureau at Atlanta reported tonight that the Chattahoochee River in Georgia may rise to eight feet above flood stage. At Eufaula, Ala., the river was twelve feet above flood stage but the weather bureau said that would be the crest.

Albany, Ga., on the Flint River, with a twenty-foot flood stage, had 21.3 feet yesterday, and a crest of twenty-eight feet was expected on Friday.

In Mississippi, 750 persons near Hattiesburg were evacuated under Red Cross supervision, and the Hattiesburg - Meridian highway was flooded. The muddy waters of the Bouie and Leaf Rivers swept away sandbags placed along the highway in an effort to keep it open.

St. John Ambulance Lecture Series Opens

The first of a series of lectures, under the auspices of the St. John Ambulance Brigade, was given recently to the members of the A.R.P. and St. John Brigade at the A.R.P. Post, Ganges.

Introduced by Mrs. E. H. Blythe, Dr. M. B. Wellwood, late of Gravenhurst Sanitorium, Ontario, spoke on home nursing of T.B.; he told his audience that there should be no such thing as home nursing of this disease, as the facilities, treatment, education given to the patient for the purpose of taking care of himself, and the specialists, both doctors and nurses, available at a sanitorium, were essential to the arresting of the disease.

A vote of thanks was proposed to Dr. Wellwood by Miss Frena Aitkens.

Chief Josiah Bull revealed yesterday that 400 pounds of sugar in small bags ready for retailing, four boxes of cigars, two cartons of cigarettes and several packages of biscuits had been stolen from the Gorge Grocery at 2971 Tillicum Road, by thieves who smashed the front door open.

A gold and pearl necklace, two gold rings, pair of gold earrings, gold bracelet and two ladies' wrist watches were also stolen from the home of Norman Tucker at 290 Maddock Avenue.

Water Connections

City waterworks department officials suggested yesterday that Victory garden cultivators who will need irrigation connections should immediately make application at the City Hall.

The City Council parks department has ploughed five lots on Mason Street, and applications for permission to use them for vegetable gardens will be received at the City Hall.

Investigates Rumor

On his return from the Cowichan district yesterday, Ald. T. W. Hawkins stated the Winter potato loss in the area was no greater than last year. He said the main cause of the shortage was scarcity of labor, which also at present prevented seeding.

The City Council recently asked the alderman to investigate and report on a rumor that large quantities of potatoes were rotting in the vicinity of Duncan.

SHIPBUILDING INCREASED

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP).—Tonnage of naval vessels delivered in February reached an all-time high, the War Production Board said today. In its January-February production report issued Saturday, W.P.B. reported that the tonnage delivered in each of the two months was below the December figure. Correcting this today, W.P.B. said the February tonnage was greater than that delivered in any previous month.

Troops "in Action" Publish Own Papers

WITH CANADIAN FORCES ON ATTACK EXERCISES IN BRITAIN, March 22 (CP).—Thousands of Canadian and British troops who participated in large-scale attack manoeuvres were kept informed of the progress of their exercise battles by daily newspapers produced by both attacking and defending armies.

The papers told the servicemen just why they were marching and fighting over an area of hundreds of [illegible] manoeuvring, their tanks firing thousands of rounds of "let's pretend" ammunition, and what every part of the army organization was trying to accomplish. The success of the publications was evident in their popularity.

The attack force commanded by Lieut.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian Army in Britain, produced a tabloid-size single sheet printed on both sides. It was called The Advance Post, was the work of British and Canadian soldier - newspapermen, and bore the Tudor rose and Canadian maple leaf on either side of its nameplate.

AND THEY CALLED IT THE BULLDOG

The defending army commanded by Lieut.-Gen. J. A. Gammell turned out a single-sheet job called The Bulldog, produced by one of its survey units.

The Post, printed on a newspaper press in the town of Oxford, started out with a circulation fixed at 8,000 but demands were so great it had to be thrice increased. The army now is considering reproducing its thirteen issues in pamphlet form for distribution among Canadian troops as a souvenir.

The Post's large staff, which operated in the field with the moving army and maintained reporters and photographers all over the front, included Sgt. Ralph Allen and Gnr. Ted Reeve, top-notch peacetime sports columnists of Toronto.

Lieut. Gordon Bauld, of Halifax, former member of the staff of The Canadian Press, was one of the sub-editors.

The Post's managing editor was Major G. W. Jaggard, experienced British journalist.

CAPTURES AND FRIENDLY JIBES

One of The Post's early achievements was publication of a photograph of a captured first issue of The Bulldog. The Bulldog retaliated with a story of its own capture of three issues of The Post, which it derided for employing the capable services of what it called a "fifth column" civilian printer in Oxford, which was under occupation of Gen. Gammell's forces at the time.

Until Oxford was taken by Canadians The Post staff was permitted to run copy by neutral carriers right through Gammell's lines to the printing press.

Both papers front-paged daily communiques issued by their respective headquarters and headlines reported such exercise events as "Frontier Tension Grows," "Big Clash Imminent," "Our Forty-Mile Advance," "Southland Liberated."

The Bulldog called McNaughton's army "The Enemy"—but The Post always referred to Gammell's forces as "Germans" or "Huns" and the defending commander as "Von Rundstedt."

The Post contained a smattering of Canadian stories supplied by the London bureau of The Canadian Press and a British news agency.

The final issue displayed a headline "Germans Granted Armistice" over a two-column story on "Unconditional Surrender."

Railroad Officials Prepare for Fourth Victory Loan Drive

VANCOUVER, March 23.—An early start for the forthcoming Fourth Victory Loan, opening April 26, was made in Canadian Pacific offices in Vancouver yesterday when campaign workers and heads of departments heard organizational and sales methods discussed by R. A. Bond, railway field officer, National War Finance, Ottawa.

William Manson, general superintendent, who will be the railway's campaign chairman for the British Columbia district, presided, and also introduced F. M. Butter, railway campaign chairman for Vancouver, and V. B. Williams, railway liaison officer, National War Finance, Vancouver.

Mr. Bond outlined fully the value of Victory Bonds to the individual as an investment, and said that the objective this time is to get all rail workers to invest 12½ per cent of their gross salaries and urged bond buyers to make their purchases through the pay deduction scheme which is operated cost free by the railway.

The Canadian Pacific Railway invested a little more than seventeen million dollars in the Third Victory Loan. Of this total roughly four and a half millions came from individual officers and employees, the balance being put up by the company itself and from the railway and express companies' pension funds.

Municipal Chapter, I.O.D.E., Holds Annual Session

Mrs. A. H. C. Phipps was elected regent of Municipal Chapter, I.O.D.E., at the annual meeting held yesterday afternoon in the S.O.E. Hall. Other officers elected were: First vice-regent, Mrs. Walter C. Nichol; second vice-regent, Mrs. Aubrey Kent; secretary, Mrs. H. Cresine; educational secretary, Mrs. F. F. Beckett; Echoes secretary, Mrs. E. E. Wootton; organizing secretary, Mrs. H. B. Hall; treasurer, Mrs. P. Cunningham; standard-bearer, Mrs. F. E. Dowdall.

A resolution, sponsored by Major John Hebden Gillespie Chapter, I.O.D.E., to the effect that all primary chapters, under Municipal, combine in presenting and participating in one mammoth undertaking each year was passed. It was felt by the members that such an endeavor, with representation from each chapter would encourage friendly co-operation between members, and bring the work of the local I.O.D.E. before the public.

Mrs. T. A. Johnston, war service convener, urged a postal invitation to friends throughout Canada and the United States to forward gifts of costume jewelry, superfluities or other gifts, to be sold for a nominal sum to aid the order's war service work. The sale will take place May 1.

SCHOOL STUDENTS WIN AWARDS

Presentation of Sarah Maxwell prizes marked the afternoon session. The first prize of $10 War Savings Certificates was given to Joyce Currie, pupil of Sir James Douglas School; the second, $5 War Savings, was awarded Kenneth Lee, a Chinese pupil of North Ward School, and the third prize, $3 War Savings, went to Barbara Bell, of Sir James Douglas School.

These prizes are awarded in memory of Sarah Maxwell, who gave her life in an endeavor to save her pupils in a school fire. This is the first time the essays have taken a Bible subject as the theme, and pupils of Grade VIII were invited to write from memory certain Psalms and the story of Moses or Joseph. The winning essay, the work of Joyce Currie, will be sent to National Chapter for entry in the Dominion-wide competition.

Mrs. F. F. Beckett, educational secretary, was in charge of the competition in Victoria. In her report Mrs. Beckett announced that many of the earlier bursary holders are now in the forces, and that eight Victoria students received bursaries last year, ranging from $100 to $20. One recipient (a girl) voluntarily returned $10 and wishes to return the full amount of $100, as an expression of her gratitude to the I.O.D.E.

Secondary education trust fund account showed disbursements amounting to $465, and isolated families amounting to $2.50, while receipts totaled $612.50. Schools, clubs and lighthouses received 575 calendars.

APPOINTED DELEGATES

An executive meeting, to nominate and elect conveners of standing committees, will be held on Tuesday, March 30, and the next Municipal Chapter meeting will be on April 22. Educational secretary's meeting will be held Thursday, April 8.

In her regent's address, Mrs. A. H. C. Phipps spoke of the great loss sustained by Victoria chapters in the death of Mrs. Kyrle Symons, Municipal regent. She referred to the "hard work and concentrated effort" of the members and advised them to "take courage from the past in order that we may go forward with hope to the future," and pointed out that, "while war work predominated, it was not carried out to the exclusion of the order's peacetime activities, thereby laying a firm foundation for postwar reconstruction." Mrs. Phipps expressed the chapter's pride in participation in Victoria's centenary celebrations, thanked her officers for their support and loyalty, and in conclusion emphasized "this is no time to think of ease and comfort. There is a job to finish, if we are to achieve ultimate victory."

Mrs. H. Cresine gave the secretary's report, covering the year's activities of Municipal Chapter, and told of the honor conferred on Mrs. J. Quinn, who unfurled the standard at the Victory Loan opening, in recognition of her splendid work collecting and distributing magazines for the armed forces.

Mrs. J. L. Gates, organizing secretary, stated there are 517 paid-up members and several new ones.

Mrs. E. E. Wootton, Echoes secretary, reported an increase in subscriptions to the order's magazine, showing Florence Nightingale Chapter, Mary Croft Chapter and Navy League Chapter each with 100 per cent subscriptions.

Mrs. J. T. Jones reported on the various occasions when the Municipal standard had been carried.

About 269 pounds of tinfoil were collected and donated to the Queen Alexandra Solarium and a lamp presented to Gordon Head Camp Hospital. The leather jerkin workroom is open three times a week, said Mrs. Johnston. Fifty hot water bottle covers were made for Esquimalt Naval Hospital, and thirty-six kneeling hassocks were embroidered for the Naval Barracks Church. The quota of ditty bags was oversubscribed, 211 being sent to the Navy League of Canada.

Mrs. J. Quinn gave a splendid report on magazines, in the course of which she announced over 250 merchant ships have been supplied during the year with 1,000 magazines each.

Mouat, the attractive decorations were carried out in green with shamrocks and other suitable emblems. Daffodils, violets and corcuses were used to decorate the rooms. Tea conveners were Mrs. W. M. Mouat and Mrs. E. Parsons, assisted by Mrs. H. Nobbs. A stall of home cooking and preserves was in charge of Miss Mary Lees.

B. and P. Club

In the absence of Miss Edith Parsell, Miss Bessie Crowther, first vice-president, conducted the meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club, held on Monday evening in the clubrooms, View Street. Following the business routine, a lengthy discussion arose from a letter and questionnaire received from Dr. G. M. Weir, acting director of training, Department of Pensions and National Health, concerning the most important occupations which would be open to women after the war; also the problem of re-employment of women war workers. The questionnaire was filled in at the meeting with great care on the part of the members.

Presbyterial Executive

As a special feature, the auxiliary presidents, Mission Circle and C.G.I.T. leaders were guests of the United Church Presbyterial executive which met recently at the Oriental Home, 1120 Pembroke Street, and enjoyed an address by Mrs. J. R. Standen, of Penticton, past-president of Kamloops-Okanagan Presbyterial and provincial secretary for Mission Circles. Mrs. Standen chose as a Lenten theme, relating the present crisis and need for sacrifice to Christ's purpose. Following her address a corsage bouquet was presented to Mrs. Standen by one of the circle girls. Mrs. W. H. Muncy presided and welcomed the guests, assisted by Mrs. Mabel Carroll Johansen, matron of the Home. Miss Grace Baker, candidate secretary, reported on the need for trained workers and urged those present to make every effort to interest prospective candidates. Teachers, nurses, social service workers and others are required also to train now for future needs. Owing to the resignation of Mrs. E. R. Bewell as supply secretary, Mrs. J. D. Wilson was appointed to succeed her. A solo by Miss Isobel Pike, "I Will Lift Up Mine Eyes" (Vernon Eville), with Mrs. W. G. H. Firth accompanying, was much enjoyed, and all listened with interest to the reports of the recent conference branch held in Vancouver, as given by the delegates, Mrs. M. Bishop, Mrs. Hugh Allison, Mrs. D. H. Muncy and Mrs. W. B. Johnston. Much had been gained from the visit of Mrs. C. Maxwell Loveys, of the Dominion Board, Toronto. Following adjournment tea was served and a social hour enjoyed.

WEEKLY WARTIME NUTRITION HINTS

The Stock Pot

Some wartime tips on the use of bones, trimmings and meat drippings

In wartime we waste nothing. And this actually leads us to many worthwhile discoveries. Meat trimmings that once were thrown away are now used to add flavour to soups, vegetables and casserole dishes such as rice, spaghetti or potatoes. Of course, no waste kitchen fat is ever thrown away. Fats are needed by war industries. But meat drippings are high in nutritive value and full of flavour. They should be used as much as possible in cooking. Strain your drippings into a tin can or bowl and store in the refrigerator. Fats you conserve and use over this way are just as much a contribution to the war effort as those you put out for the garbage collector.

Now for bones. These are also collected for the war effort. But before you put them out, simmer for several hours to make meat stock. Vegetable trimmings and vegetable water add to the flavour of the stock. When the bones have simmered four or five hours, pour off the stock into a bowl and chill. As soon as the fat has congealed, remove it and you have a wonderful base for soup and gravies.

Family Welfare Association Re-Elects Members of Board

The meeting of the board of directors of the Family Welfare Association held recently at Welfare House, Mr. E. H. Wilson presiding, resulted in the following officers being unanimously re-elected: President, Mr. E. H. Wilson; vice-presidents, Mrs. C. D. Schofield and Mr. R. McKenzie; honorary treasurer, Mr. N. F. Ferris.

Committee chairmen: Membership and publicity, Mrs. Hartley; building, Mr. J. Goldie; finance, Mr. F. E. Winslow; Sunshine Camp, Alderman Davies; clothing, Miss C. McNaughton; nominating, Miss Sara Spencer; case committee, Rev. F. Comley; signing officers, Mr. E. H. Wilson, Mr. F. E. Winslow, Mr. N. F. Ferris, Mrs. Spurgin.

The general secretary reported that arrangements had been made for Mrs. G. Hughes, staff member, to attend the Northwest Regional Conference on Family Relations, to be held at the University of Washington from March 25 to 27.

The case committee report was read by Mr. Wilson in the absence of the chairman, Rev. F. Comley. Four cases were reported on, and four new cases presented. Cases presented included two marital problems, one child behavior problem, and the case of a transient family.

The monthly financial report was presented by Mr. N. F. Ferris, honorary treasurer. He noted that the amount of assistance given in cash to clients was down appreciably in February, in spite of the fact that many demands for help in getting fuel had been met. The statistical report, presented by the general secretary, showed an increase of over 120 applications in February, 1943, as compared with that month in 1942. Over 400 visits had been made and interviews held during the month.

It was reported that a hedge of Montrey cypress had been planted at Sunshine Camp, and a donation of assorted early-bearing fruit trees had been received from the Layritz Nurseries. Plans for a victory vegetable garden for the camp were discussed. It was planned that, although the number of those requiring a holiday at camp would be less this year, the camp for the sightless and senior citizens should be arranged for, as well as that for mothers and children.

Mrs. C. Marshall was appointed as agency representative to the Board of the Council of Social Agencies.

SPEAKS ON NURSERY SCHOOLS

Miss Violet Ashdown, who supervises a nursery school in Oak Bay, gave an interesting and enlightening talk on the value of nursery schools in the community. The value and importance of scientific training of pre-school children was stressed by Miss Ashdown.

The speaker pointed out the fact that infant health and development was fostered and helped through free well-baby clinics, which were conducted by specially trained doctors and nurses. The public school child also receives attention through public health services, but the pre-school child is without these advantages. Thus, in the most formative period of life, our children are without the expert care which is extended to those of other ages. Miss Ashdown felt that this was a serious omission in our total child care programme, as instituted by health and school authorities.

In the opinion of the speaker, the benefits of free association in the fun-producing atmosphere of a well-run nursery school could not be measured. She emphasized the fact that this service would not constitute a substitution for a happy home life, but was merely a supplementation, as it would give to the overpressed mother of young children a chance to learn new and better ways of dealing with the problems of her small family.

The president drew the attention of the board to the annual meeting of the Community Chest and the Council of Social Agencies, to be held at the Y.W.C.A. at 8 o'clock on March 26.

Registry Reports Placing Children Matter of Concern

Fifty-six families, approximately 224 people, and forty single persons were placed in homes during the past week by the National Housing Registry, but the registry officials expressed concern over the lack of accommodation for children in the city.

One family has found it necessary to place their four children in an orphanage because they are unable to find a place which will accommodate them, it was reported. Another family unable to find a house large enough to place them has found it necessary to have three of their children boarding in separate homes. Two families, one with three children and one with two, are living in one room each. All of these people are either war workers or servicemen whose duties compel them to live in Victoria, and the registry is asking any citizen who has or knows of suitable accommodation for these people to get in touch with the registry, 817 Government Street, or telephone B 3117.

Dear Sirs:

Yesterday I received a postcard bearing my son's signature as a receipt for a parcel he received from you.

My son, who is a prisoner of war in Germany since last September 19, also writes me in a letter dated Germany, July 1, says that he has received only six Canadian Red Cross food parcels since being in Germany, he writes how much he has enjoyed these, and how he wishes he would receive Canadian food parcels more often. He asks me to thank you for him, and hopes to receive more of them in the future.

I note the card bearing his signature sent to me so kindly by you, dated January 23, 1942, is from Stalg VIIIB. He has now been moved from this address to Stalg Luft III.

May I on behalf of myself and family take this opportunity of thanking you most gratefully for this wonderful service you are doing, not only in helping the prisoners of war, but also the comfort you give to those at home, who are unable to send to the boys. To know that your splendid organization is doing the utmost to make life more bearable for boys is a great source of comfort to us all.

Once again thanking you, I am

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It's one of the most effective medicines you can buy that's made especially for women.

Pinkham's Compound does more than relieve distress. Taken regularly—it builds up resistance against such symptoms. It also is a fine tonic for the stomach!

Tip Top Tailors Have Contributed To Armed Forces

"There is an adequate supply of clothing materials for civilian use if the consumer willfreatrict his buying to actual need," said David Dunkelman, president of Tip Top Tailors, Ltd., Toronto, in an interview at the Empress Hotel yesterday. "At present, I can see no indication of clothing rationing unless it is brought on by unnecessary buying."

Mr. Dunkelman is on a routine visit to the Western and Pacific Coast stores of the firm, which has branches from coast to coast. He revealed that over 80 per cent of his firm's production is devoted to military uniforms for the armed forces.

"I think I can safely say that the Canadian Army ranks among the best dressed in the world. I am proud that Tip Top Tailors has contributed its skill and facilities to this vital work. And in spite of that," he said, "and because of greatly expanded facilities, we are still able to care for civilian needs in proportion to the time and facilities left."

Asked if his firm was still receiving woolens from England, Mr. Dunkelman pointed out that although their supplies have been greatly curtailed, nevertheless the greatest proportion of their woolens come from the British Isles. Quality in general, he said, had been fully maintained since the outbreak of war.

A large percentage of the firm's personnel has joined the armed services; thirteen key executives have left to go in the armed forces or to take vital war posts. Store personnel, too, has been depleted by enlistments, he said.

Mr. Dunkelman paid tribute to the workers of his organization. "Without the whole-hearted loyalty and will to work shown by our people in the plant, our unprecedented production figures could never have been attained," he said. "They have done a wonderful job. Today we turn out uniforms at the rate of one every eight seconds during the working day. We think it is a record to be proud of."

MONUMENT TO A GREAT JAPANESE DISASTER

Once a proud liner of the Japanese mercantile marine, the Kinugawa Maru lies beached at Guadalcanal, a costly monument to the Japanese failure to hold the strategic island. The Kinugawa was part of the invasion fleet cut to bits by United States warships in the Solomons, in the battle that raged from November 12 to 15. Only Japanese on Guadalcanal now are dead and under ground.

Churchill

higher education should be denied this chance. You cannot conduct a modern community except with an adequate supply of persons upon whose education, whether humanitarian, technical or scientific, much time and money has been spent.

There is another element which should never be banished from our system of education. Here we have freedom of thought as well as freedom of conscience. Here we have been pioneers of religious toleration.

FULLEST RECOGNITION OF RELIGIOUS BODIES

But side by side with all this has been the fact that religion has been the rock in the life and character of the British people upon which they have built their hopes and cast their cares. This fundamental element must never be taken from our schools, and I rejoice to learn of enormous progress that is being made among all religious bodies in freeing themselves from sectarian jealousies and feuds while preserving fervently the tenets of their own faith.

Secular schooling of the great mass of our scholars must be progressively prolonged and for this we must both improve our schools and train our teachers.

After school time ends we must not throw our youth uncared for and unsupervised on to the labor market, with its blind-alley occupations which start so fair and often end so foul.

We must make plans for part-time release from industry so that our young people may have the chance to carry on their general education and also to obtain specialized education which will fit them better for their work.

Under our ancient monarchy, the bulwark of British liberties, that barrier against dictatorships of all kinds, we intend to move forward in a great family, preserving the comradeships of war, free forever from class prejudice and other forms of snobbery from which in modern times we have suffered less than most other nations.

ALL CHILDREN WILL HAVE THEIR CHANCE

We have made great progress but we must make far greater progress. We must make sure that the path to the higher functions throughout our society and Empire is really open to children of every family. Whether they can tread that path will depend upon their qualities, tested by fair competition.

All cannot reach the same level, but all must have their chance.

I look forward to a Britain so big that she will need to draw her leaders from every type of school and wearing every kind of tie. Tradition may play its part, but broader systems must now rule.

We have one large immediate task in the planning and rebuilding of our cities and towns. This will make a very great call on our resources in material and labor, but it is also an immense opportunity not only for improvement of our housing but for employment of our people in the years immediately after the war.

In the far-reaching scheme for reorganizing the building industry, prepared by the Minister of Labor and the Minister of Works, will be found another means of protecting our insurance fund from the drain of unemployment relief.

Mr. Bevin is attacked from time to time, now from one side, now from another. When I think of the tremendous changes which have been effected under the strain of war in the lives of the whole people of both sexes and of every class with so little friction, and when I consider the practical absence of strikes in this war compared to what happened in the last, I think he will be able to take it all right.

SAVINGS OF PEOPLE SACRED OBLIGATION

You will see from what I have said that there is no lack of material for the four-years plan for the transition period from war to peace and for another plan after that.

For the present during the war our rule should be no promises but every preparation, including, where required, any necessary preliminary legislative preparation. Before I conclude I have to strike two notes, one of sober caution and the other of confidence that all our improvements and expansion must be related to sound and modernized finance. A friend of mine said the other day in the House of Commons that "Pounds, shillings and pence were meaningless symbols." This made me open my eyes. What then are we to say about the savings of the people? We have just begun a "Wings for Victory" war savings campaign to which all classes have subscribed. Vast numbers of people have been encouraged to purchase war savings certificates. Income tax is collected from wage earners of certain levels and carried to the nest egg for them at the end of the war, the Government having the use of the money meanwhile. A nest egg similar in character will be given to the armed forces.

Those whose houses have been destroyed by air raid damage and who have in many cases paid insurance are entitled to compensation. All those obligations were contracted in pounds, shillings and pence.

At the end of this war there will be 7,000,000 or 8,000,000 people in the country with £200 or £300 apiece, a thing unknown in our history.

These savings of the nation arising from the thrift, skill or devotion of individuals are sacred. The state is built around them and it is the duty of the state to redeem its faith in an equal degree of value.

TO CONTINUE POLICY OF STABLE PRICES

I am not one of those who are wedded to undue rigidity in management of the currency system but this I say: That over a period of ten or fifteen years there ought to be a fair, steady continuity of values if there is to be any faith between man and man or between individual and state. We have successfully stabilized prices during the war. We intend to continue this policy after the war to the utmost of our ability.

This brings me to the subject of the burden and incidence of taxation. Direct taxation on all classes stands at unprecedented and sterilizing levels. Besides this there is indirect taxation raised to a remarkable height.

In wartime our people are willing and even proud to pay all those taxes. But such conditions could not continue in peace. We must expect taxation after the war to be heavier than it was before the war, but we do not intend to shape our plans or levy taxation in a way which by removing personal incentive would destroy initiative and enterprise.

If you take any single year of peace and take a slice through the industry and enterprise of the nation you will find work which is being done at the moment, work that is being planned for next year, and projects for the third, fourth and even fifth year ahead which are all maturing.

MUST BE PREPARED WHEN PEACE COMES

War cuts down all this forward planning. Thus when peace came suddenly as it did last time, there were no long carefully prepared plans for the future. That was one of the main reasons why at the end of the last war, after a momentary recovery, we fell into the dreadful trough of unemployment. We must not be caught again that way.

It is therefore necessary to make sure that we have projects for the future employment of people and a forward movement of our industries, carefully foreseen, and secondly that private enterprise and state enterprise are both able to play their parts to the utmost.

A number of measures are being and will be prepared which will enable the Government to exercise a balancing influence upon development which can be turned on or off as circumstances require. There is a broadening field for state ownership and enterprise especially in relation to monopolies of all kind. The modern state will increasingly concern itself with the economic well being of the nation, but it is all the more vital to revive at the earliest moment widespread, healthy and vigorous enterprise without which we shall never be able to provide, in the years when it is needed, the employment for our soldiers, sailors and airmen to which they are entitled after their duty has been done.

In this brief survey I have tried to set before you both hopes and fears: I have given both caution and encouragement. But if I have to strike a balance, as I must do before the end, let me proclaim myself a faithful follower of a larger hope. I will proceed to back this hope with some solid facts. Anyone can see the difficulties of placing our exports profitably in a world so filled with ruined countries. Foreign trade to be of value must be fertile. There is no use in doing business at a loss.

INTENSE DEMAND FOR INDUSTRIAL EXPORTS

Nevertheless, I am advised that in view of the general state of the world after the defeat of Hitler there will be considerable opportunities for re-establishing our exports. Immediately after the war there will be an intense demand both for home and export for what are called consumable goods such as clothes, furniture and textiles. I have spoken of an immense building programme, and we all know the stimulus which that is to a large number of trades, including electrical and metal industries. We have learnt much about production under the stress of war; our methods have vastly improved. The layout of our factories presents an entirely new and novel picture to the eye. Mass production has been forced upon us.

Electrification of industry has been increased 50 per cent. There are some significant new industries offering scope for inventiveness and vigor which made this country great and still lives. When the fetters of wartime are struck off and we turn free hands to the industrial tasks of peace we may be astonished at the progress in efficiency we shall suddenly find displayed. I can only mention a few instances. The ceaseless improvements in wireless and the wonders of radio-location applied to arts of peace will employ the radio industry. Striking advances are open for both gas and electricty as servants of industry, agriculture and the cottage home. There is civil aviation. There is forestry. There is transportation. We were the earliest in the world with railways; we must bring them up to date in every respect. Here, in these few examples, are gigantic opportunities which if used will in turn increase our power to serve other countries with the goods they want.

ENTITLED TO SHARE OF WORLD TRADE

Our own effort must be supported by international arrangements and agreements more neighbor-like and more sensible than before. We must strive to secure our fair share of an augmented world trade. Our fortunes will be greatly influenced by policies of the United States and of the British Dominions, and we are doing our utmost to keep in ever closer contact with them. We have lately put before them and our other friends and Allies some tentative suggestions for future management of exchanges and of international currency, which will shortly be published. This is a first instalment.

I have heard a great deal on both sides of these questions during the forty years I have served in the House of Commons and the twenty years or more I have served in Cabinets. I have tried to learn from events and also from my own mistakes. And I tell you my solemn belief, which is that if we act with comradeship and loyalty to our country and to one another, and if we can make State enterprise and free enterprise both serve national interests and pull the nation wagon side by side then there is no need for us to run into that horrible devastating slump or into that squalid epoch of bickering and confusion which mocked and squandered the hard-won victory which we gained a quarter of a century ago. I end where I began. Let us get back to our job. I must warn everyone who hears me of a certain unseemliness and also of danger of it appearing to the world that we here in Britain are diverting our attention to a peace which is still remote and to the fruits of a victory which have still to be won while our Russian Allies are fighting for dear life and dearer honor in a dire, deadly, daily struggle against all the might of the German military machine, and while our thoughts should be with our armies and with our American and French comrades now engaged in decisive battle in Tunisia, let us wish them Godspeed in their struggle. I have just received a message from General Montgomery that the Eighth Army is on the move and that he is satisfied with their progress. Let us all bend our efforts to the war and to evermore vigorous prosecution of ous supreme task.

The old lag stood before the magistrate, who boomed:

"What's the matter with you? Can't you behave yourself for one week? You've been before this court at least thirty times. You've been charged with drunkenness, shoplifting, burglary, assault, and now you are accused of beating your wife. What have you to say?"

"Your Worship," declared the prisoner, "nobody's perfect."

"The telephone is a wonderful invention," said the talkative man in the train. "Absolutely wonderful. You probably saw me come out of the call-box in the station. I just twisted a dial and I got Liverpool!"

But the fed-up man in the opposite corner was in no mood for such conversation.

"That's nothing," he remarked acidly. "The last time I twisted a dial I got Dartmoor."

VICTORIA WEST

The weekly parade of the Victoria West Scouts will be held on Wednesday at 7:30 o'clock in the Salvation Army Hall, corner of Catherine and Edward Streets. Second class badges will be awarded to qualifying Scouts. Patrol leaders are responsible for seeing that each Scout has his staff and is wearing full uniform. Vacancies still exist for eight recruits and applications can be considered from boys between twelve and seventeen years of age. Application forms can be obtained at the weekly parade or by telephoning Empire 6290.

ST. MARY'S CUB PACK

To help the bombed-out Scouts in Britain, Cubs of St. Mary's Third Cub Pack, under the direction of Scout Cecil Gould, held a bazaar in an open field south of Pentland Road on Saturday afternoon. The whole affair was arranged and run entirely by the boys themselves, aided by two of the boys' sisters. Over $14 was raised from various stalls which were as follows: Popcorn and chocolate drinks, jewelry and oddment counter, flower stall, raffle, book stall and five games of skill.

As they walked home together, Tom told Fred he was going to give his wife a serious talk on economy.

When they met again next day, Fred asked:

"Well, did you give the missus that economy lecture?"

"I did," replied Tom.

"Any results?"

"Yes—er—I'm going to give up smoking."

NO. 86—EIGHTY-FIFTH YEAR — VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, TUESDAY, MARCH 23, 1943

Glancing Over Sport—

By JOE DELAHUNTY

THE DAY'S WASHING

With the first game out of their systems, Victoria's Army will even up the British Columbia-Alberta hockey series tonight at Calgary. That's my prediction and here's my guess at the score: Victoria 6, Calgary Army 2, so don't say I didn't tell you. . . . Only the brilliant goal tending of McCool saved the Prairie lads in the opener last Saturday. At least that is the Calgary sport writers, who state that the Coast boys are smarter stickhandlers, faster and work more plays when nearing the net. . . . Victoria was flying at the finish but couldn't make up that four-goal deficit, thanks to some sensational saves by the Calgary netminder. . . . A few words about this fellow McCool. He played midget, juvenile and junior hockey with the Knights of Columbus in Calgary, and then was two years with Gonzaga University, winners of the Pacific Coast amateur title. He was given a tryout with Chicago Black Hawks in 1939-40, and was with Lacombe Athletic Club in 1941. He didn't play last season. . . . Canadiens blew a three-goal lead against Boston on Sunday night to lose the first game of the play-downs in the N.H.L. after overtime by the odd tally in nine. They play again this evening in Beantown, so the Bruins by three goals. . . . Leafs and Red Wings go at it again also. Detroit took the first one and will repeat tonight by the same margin. . . . Army cagers and R.C.A.F. clash at the High School gym tonight in the fifth and final game for the city senior casaba crown. It's going to be a tough battle all the way, so, folks, don't miss it. If the troops can handcuff Norm Baker they can win, but if the big blond is on the loose again it should be victory for the Flyers. My choice is the Army by three baskets.

ODDS AND ENDS

If history carries on it will be another ten years before the citizens of Toronto are awarded with another championship Stanley Cup winner. Last season the Leafs pulled off the almost unbelievable when they lost the first three to Detroit, then came surging back to clip the Wings in four straight. . . . Ten years previous to that, in 1932, Toronto won the honors and then we have to leap backwards another decade to 1922 for another Queen City triumph, the season Toronto St. Patricks came through. . . . Naval College fifteen tapped the Rugby barrel for another victory last Saturday when they took a free-scoring match from the Royal Air Force to capture the Cowichan Cup. That makes it a clean sweep for the cadets, having previously won the Barnard and Rounsfell Cups, symbolic of city and provincial honors, respectively. Nice going, fellows, you played inspired ball and deserved your victories. . . . "One of the best games played in this city for a long time." That was the opinion of an old-time soccer fan as we chatted over the Vancouver Boeings-R.A.F. match Sunday afternoon at Bullen Park. The Old Country lads won the decision by a clear margin and, on their exhibition, they should provide strong opposition in the coming Province Cup series. . . . Gene Senesky, of St. Joseph's College in Philadelphia, goes into the books as the outstanding basketball player of the year. In the twenty-two games he played the six-foot-two sharpshooter averaged twenty-four points each time out to set an all-time record. From the foul line he was in a class by himself, converting ninety-six out of 124 attempts. . . . Do you know that Syl Johnson, veteran Seattle pitcher, is turning out for his twenty-third season in professional ball? Syl was in the Coast League as a young rookie in 1920 but has traveled all over the country since those days.

FROM HERE AND THERE

Sgt. Don Woodbridge, who has turned in some smart games for the R.A.F. football eleven and also the local all-star machine, is leaving our midst next Friday, for Alberta. The popular net custodian will be missed by his many friends and football followers for he was popular and a good sportsman on and off the field of battle. Good luck, Don, from this sports department. . . . However, the R.A.F. have unearthed a sweet replacement for Woodbridge in the person of Sgt. Perry, who turned in a sparkling exhibition between the uprights on Sunday against Boeings. Perry played for Derby County before the world was turned upside down by Hitler and his gangsters. . . . Remember when: Lionel Conacher played the last game of his twelve-year National Hockey League career six years ago last night as defenceman with the Montreal Maroons as his team defeated Detroit Red Wings, 5-1? Today the "big train" is an honorary squadron leader in the R.C.A.F., directing the airmen's sports activities. He is also a member of the Ontario Legislature. . . . Also when Montreal Canadiens started to their second Stanley Cup victory nineteen years ago tonight by defeating Calgary Tigers, of the Western Canada League, 5-1, in the first match of the cup play-offs at Montreal? The Flying Frenchmen's first cup triumph was in 1916 and their last two victories were in 1930 and 1931. . . . Do you know that it is seven years ago tomorrow night that Montreal Maroons and Detroit played the longest big-league hockey game on record? They battled 176 minutes and 30 seconds in the first of the N.H.L. series at Montreal and the Wings won out when Mud Burneteau scored the only goal of the game. Four years previously a game between the Leafs and Bruins took 164 minutes and 40 seconds.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, March 22 (AP).—For the first time in the National Hockey League, New York Rangers finished last this season—but the club made $11,000 more than last year—not including $10,000 or so receipts from their Red Cross game.

Leo Diegel has raised more than $600 for the Red Cross at the El Rio Golf Club in Tucson, Ariz., this Winter by plastering two-bit fines on golfers who hit into traps and by rigging up golf bets in which all the dough involved went to the Red Cross.

Jimmy Conzelman, who knows the answers to most football coaching problems, admits this one has him stumped . . . the other day he received a letter from an inmate of a state institution. It stated: "I heard you say a man can do anything with material. You're my material. Get me out of here and find me a job driving a truck."

RACING ENDS THURSDAY

LOS ANGELES, March 22 (AP).—Chairman Jerry Giesler of the California Horse Racing Board, said tonight there is no possibility that racing at Bay Meadows, scheduled to end Thursday, after twenty days, would be extended.

"It mades madam look ten years younger."

"Good gracious, fancy putting on ten years every time I take my hat off!"

Baseball Season to Open Here May 1

Officers Re-Elected at Annual Meeting; Entries Close April 15

Victoria's 1943 baseball opening will be one of the earliest in many years, with the diamond pastimers scheduled to pry the lid off the coming season's campaign on Saturday, May 1, at Royal Athletic Park.

While the definite set-up of the league is not known at present, indications point to the majority of last year's six clubs, V.M.D., Navy, Army, R.C.A.F., Eagles and Pitzer & Nex, entering the pennant race again.

The diamond sport enjoyed its most successful season in more than two decades in 1942, with the attendances at the Caledonia Avenue ball lot soaring to an all-time high. The season's record was established for the final play-off game between the V.M.D. and Navy when more than 2,800 fans witnessed the two clubs in action.

Club delegates attending the annual meeting last night at the British Public Schools Club, Langley Street, listened attentively to the 1942 reports and after extending a vote of thanks to the retiring officers, returned them all to office for another year.

W. J. "Bill" Cull, who has headed the Victoria Baseball Association since the reorganization of the diamond pastime here five years ago, was re-elected president, while Ted Taylor went back to office for his fifth straight term. Sid Thomas, secretary-treasurer since the inception of the association, was also re-elected.

Joe Casey, manager of the Victoria All-Stars for the past two seasons, will look after the club again during the 1943 inter-city series.

Bill Griffin, who acted in the capacity of chairman of the second division during 1942, was returned to office after being thanked for his fine work during the past season.

Delegates attending the annual parley voted in favor of again putting the games on the air over CJVI, the local broadcasting station. Most of the exhibitions were "aired" during 1942, with Lee Hallberg as the sportscaster.

ENTRIES CLOSE ON APRIL 15

Clubs wishing to enter the senior division were warned that entries along with the $10 fee must be in the hands of the secretary not later than April 15. The next meeting of the association will be held on Monday, April 19, at 8 o'clock, at the British Public Schools Club.

Playing days for the session were left in abeyance, but it is quite probable that games will be played Monday, Wednesday and Friday, with Saturday being left open for fixtures with visiting clubs.

Pending word from the Mainland loop, the Victoria Baseball Association took no action on the proposal for inter-city games with Vancouver teams. The local body favors inter-league contests, with the result counting in the league standings of the two leagues.

Composition of the clubs, apart from the Victoria Machinery Depot, city champions, is indefinite at present, but reports have it that a number of new players are in the city. The shipyard workers have most of their 1942 pennant winning squad on hand and can be relied upon to field a strong club.

Armstrong Is Back in Limelight

Punches Way to Fight Triumph

PHILADELPHIA, March 22 (AP).—Henry Armstrong buzz-sawed back into the East on his booming comeback campaign tonight with a ten-round decision over Al Tribuani, a willing but overpowered workman from Wilmington, Del., before a jam-packed sell-out crowd in Convention Hall. Armstrong scaled 138 1-2, Tribuani 146 1-4.

Chalking up the sixteenth victory in the eighteen starts since he decided there were still a lot of fights left in him, the Little Hammer took the play away from his heavier rival from start to finish.

At the finish The Associated Press score card gave Armstrong six rounds, voted two for Tribuani and called two even. The decision was unanimous on the part of Referee Irv Kutcher and Judges Al Voice and Frank Knarsborough.

It was a slower "buzz saw" than when the little brown dynamiter was the only warrior in ring history to hold three world championships simultaneously, but he was a battler who "set" himself more for every punch and threw fewer that missed.

In the sixth Henry caught up with his bigger opponent and all but tore his head off with a smashing right uppercut that was easily the best blow of the fight. Near the bell ending the eighth, he closed in on Tribuani near the neutral corner and poured rights to the head in a steady stream that staggered Tribuani. But each time Al came back and was trying—but doing little else—at the bell.

From here, Henry makes stop No. 19 on his comeback campaign in New York, April 3, against Beau Jack, recognized in New York as world lightweight champion.

One of the biggest crows in Philadelphia's indoor fistic history, 12,633, tonight contributed to a gross gate of $32,915.

Crucial Hoop Tilt Carded Tonight At High School

WITH the Vancouver Island senior "A" men's championship and the right to travel to Vancouver to oppose the Mainlanders in the provincial play-downs hanging in the balance, Royal Canadian Air Force and Army hoopsters will meet this evening on the Victoria High School court. Gaining in interest with each contest, the best-of-five play-off has reached a new high in the cage sport here, and another packed house is expected to witness the crucial encounter. Soldiers took the first two fixtures and appeared headed for victory, but the Flyers came back with successive triumphs to even the series at two games all. So tonight, at the high school gymnasium, the clubs will battle it out to a finish. The championship game is billed for 8:30 o'clock, and will be preceded by an exhibition game one hour earlier.

Gallinger's Goal Beats Canadiens

Rookie Fires Home Overtime Marker For Boston; Detroit Downs Leafs

BOSTON, March 22 (CP).—A sudden-death goal by Don Gallinger enabled Boston Bruins to open their National Hockey League play-off series against Montreal Canadiens with a hard-earned 5-4 victory Sunday before a crowd of 11,977 at Boston Gardens.

The Bruins spotted their rivals a three-goal lead then pulled up to even the count at 4-4 in regulation time and force the game into sudden-death overtime.

Gallinger, who also racked up the first Boston tally, ended the game after twelve and one-half minutes of overtime play by capturing Bep Guidolin's rebound and circling the Montreal net. The sixteen-year-old centre, after making his swing, then fought his way to the edge of the crease and back-handed the puck into the far corner of Paul Bibeault's cage.

Canadiens, who pulled into the 3-0 lead in less than twenty-two minutes, missed a wide-open opportunity during the first minute of overtime, when Captain Dit Clapper was sent off for tripping Winger Joe Benoit.

After Toe Blake scored late in the first period, Buddy O'Connor gave Montreal a second tally while Guidolin was finishing a hold-over penalty forty-two seconds after the second period opened. Blake then notched his second goal of the game before Gallinger put the Bruins into the running with a spectacular solo scoring effort.

A Benoit penalty provided the Bruins with the second scoring opportunity, which was capitalized by Art Jackson, at 8:06 in the middle frame.

Dutch Hiller, who performed for the Bruins last season, provided Canadiens with their fourth score early in the third period. But before it ended, Ossie Aubuchon and Bill Cowley pulled the Bruins into the deadlock.

The teams resume their best-of-seven series here Tuesday night before moving to Montreal for a two-game stand.

DETROIT, March 21 (CP).—Detroit Red Wings produced three goals in the third period Sunday to defeat the Toronto Leafs, 4-2, in the opener of their best-of-seven National Hockey League play-off series.

Before 12,723 spectators, the Detroiters matched first period goals with the Leafs and then shot out in front early in the third period on goals thirty-seven seconds apart by Don (Count) Grosso and Eddie Wares. Rookie Les Douglas got another for the Wings before Jackie Hamilton tallied for Toronto.

The Wings, league champions and favorites to get past the Leafs into the Stanley Cup final, spotted Toronto an early goal by Mel Hill; but Carl Liscombe squared the count less than five minutes later. The middle period was scoreless.

Grosso, thirty-one-year-old centre from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., who carried his injured left wrist in a cast most of the season, provided the spark that enabled the Wings to seize an advantage in the series. He stole the puck from Gaye Stewart, brilliant Leaf forward, inside the Toronto blue line and hammered home a twenty-foot shot that slipped through Walter (Turk) Broda.

Then Grosso broke in on the goalie again. Broda saved this time, but Wares snapped the rebound into an open net. That was the game, even though younger members of the rival casts flashed the red light thereafter.

The victory actually smashed a Toronto play-off winning streak carried over from last season when the Leafs captured the last four games to defeat the Wings, 4-3, for the Stanley Cup. The two clubs meet here again Tuesday before moving to Toronto where the next two will be played.

In turning back the Leafs, Goalie Johnny Mowers, of Detroit, made twenty-one saves, four fewer than Broda.

Individually, Grosso and Joe Carveth each bagged two points for Detroit, and Jackie Hamilton, seventeen-year-old schoolboy, and Mel Hill each got two for the Leafs.

Second Period—No score. Penalty: Simon.

Third Period—3, Detroit, Grosso, 6:06; 4, Detroit, Wares (Grosso), 6:43; 5, Detroit, Douglas (Carveth), 11:00; 6, Toronto, J. Hamilton (Davidson), 13:55. Penalties: None.

C.P.R. Tennis Club Makes Plans for Coming Season

Other officers are: Gordon Fields, vice-president; Dorothy Newman, secretary; Phyllis Lockley, treasurer; Jim Collier, team captain; Patricia Holden, entertainment chairman; Norah Rice-Jones and Roddy McInnes, executive members. Champs Going Fast

ATHENS, Ga., March 22 (AP).—Coach Wally Butts of the University of Georgia says his Rose Bowl football champions are going fast.

Of the combined freshman and varsity squads which finished the 1942 campaign, only forty players remain—and thirty of these are reserves in one or another of the United States armed services. Butts says he expects most of these to be called for active duty by July 1.

All-American Frankie Sinkwich graduated last week and moved on toward an officer-candidacy in the U.S. Marines. Wally also is faced with the prospective loss of Sinky's brilliant understudy, Charlie Trippi, who paced Georgia to its Rose Bowl victory over University of California at Los Angeles last New Year's Day. Trippi, a sophomore, is in the reserves.

May Fight For Crown

Wants Angott to Meet Beau Jack

NEW YORK, March 22 (AP).—In the wake of Sammy Angott's startling comeback to snap Wee Willie Pep's all-time record winning streak at sixty-two straight, the National Boxing Association Saturday called for a bout between Swarthy Sammy and Beau Jack to "end the lightweight championship muddle."

The possibility of such a bout coming off immediately was somewhat remote, however, since Promoter Mike Jacobs pointed out that Jack already is signed to defend his half of the lightweight crown—the New York half—against Bob Montgomery, of Philadelphia, in Madison Square Garden May 21.

But Jacobs left one loophole through which the lightweight merry-go-round might spin by saying that "the only way a Beau Jack-Angott match could be arranged would be for the winner of such a fight to agree to meet Montgomery within sixty or ninety days; or else the winner of the Jack-Montgomery match could agree to meet Angott in the same period."

Just how it comes about doesn't matter much to President Abe Greene and the rest of the N.B.A.—as long as it happens somehow—and quickly.

The featherweight stew also started to cook with word that contact already has been made looking to a possible bout between Wee Willie Pep, the New York-recognized champion, and Jackie Callura, of Hamilton, Ont., who has the N.B.A.'s blessing as boss man. Such a fight might take place late in May.

PHILADELPHIA, March 22 (AP).—Connie Mack announced today that he has traded Bob Johnson, slugging outfielder, who refused to sign a 1943 contract with the Philadelphia Athletics, to the Washington Senators for Infielders Roberto Estalella and Jimmy Pofahl.

The deal strengthened Mack's weakest department as he prepared to open training camp at Wilmington, Del.

Johnson had announced he would not sign with the A's unless he received a bonus based on last year's attendance. Mack contended box office figures did not reach the number specified in the bonus clause of Johnson's contract.

TOAST and TEA

By J. V. McAREE

WE have heard a specialist described as a man who knows more and more about less and less; and the other day we saw the function of experts precisely defined. Experts are not supposed to decide what is to be done, they are expected to decide how something can be done which has been decided upon. For example, the duty of a lawyer is not to tell a man how he should distribute his estate, but to show him how his own wishes on the matter can be put in legal form. Nor is the essential function altered when the experts happen to be military specialists. In all democratic countries they are responsible to civil authority, subject to removal if they fail, and whether they fail is a matter which the event proclaims. Civil authority could not, if it willed, abdicate its duties to the generals. They are vested in the office of Prime Minister or President, and they must be performed to the best of the ability of those who hold that office. So in the matter of the Second Front it was for Roosevelt and Churchill to determine when there should be one, and for the general staff of the armed forces to decide how it should be opened.

Exhibition Match Is Arranged

All-Star Teams to Meet; R.A.F. Wins

Still very much in the running for the inter-city laurels, Victoria All-Stars will oppose Manager Joe Watt's picked eleven tomorrow at Royal Athletic Park. The kick-off is slated for 5:45 o'clock, with Danny Glancy handling the whistle.

In their last exhibition game the All-Stars turned back a squad chosen from the two R.A.F. teams, 5-3, after setting up a 5-0 lead in the opening half.

Joe Watt, veteran footballer, who enjoyed considerable success with his picked squad earlier this season, is confident he can field a club to take the Victoria All-Stars.

Charlie Lewis, league president, and a member of the board of selectors, yesterday announced the All-Stars line-up, as follows: Woodbridge, Slogar, McGeachy, Harris, Robbins, Witham, Potter, Parks, Robinson, Boulter, Reside, Morgan and Hall.

Manager Joe Watt's club will be as follows: Stewardson, Maren, Prescott, Douglas, Dougan, Restell, Duncan, Parkinson, J. Robbins, Witter and Davidson.

R.A.F. DEFEATS VANCOUVER TEAM

Backed up by a grand display in goal and turning in a fast, smart exhibition, Royal Air Force footballers defeated Vancouver Boeings, 4-1, in an inter-city exhibition match played Sunday afternoon at Bullen Park.

Old Country lads set up a 1-0 lead on a first-half goal by Potter, during an evenly fought stanza, the R.A.F. player scoring from a corner.

Early in the final canto, Parkinson, outside right, registered for the Royal Air Force to make it 2-0. Boeings rallied and Sinclair fired home their lone counter. Parkinson came back with another marker for the Old Country lads, and just before the end of the match Huggins tallied to give them a 4-1 victory.

Pat Mulcahy, Victoria football commissioner, yesterday announced that entries are being called for the Province Cup competition. Local clubs are asked to submit their entries, along with their club colors and the name of their secretary to J. H. Richardson, 626 West Pender Street, Vancouver.

PINEHURST, N.C., March 22 (AP).—Golf has its first big show, and probably its last, beginning here tomorrow.

Ice Carnival Huge Success

Annual Affair Of Skating Club

The first annual ice carnival of the Victoria Figure Skating Club, featuring a fine variety of acts and professional smoothness of presentation, was well received by a large crowd last night at the Willows Ice Arena.

Outstanding solo performances were given by Doreen Olson, Daphne Greenwood and Lorraine Stocker of the Victoria Club, some of them junior members making their first appearance before an audience.

Sheila Francis and R. D. Rann, R.C.N.; Clem Patterson and Betty McNiven, Lorraine Stocker and Dianne McCormick, and Sheila and Diana Francis together, pleased the spectators with their duet performances, while Ruth and June Jackson, of the Totem Figure Skating Club, of New Westminster, went through difficult routines with the ease of long training.

NEW WESTMINSTER GIRLS STARRED

Vivienne McIntyre and Jean Matthews, champions of the New Westminster Club, were the leading stars of the show, closely followed by Arnold and Harold Hornby as the front and rear end of a fractious Ferdinand the Bull. More comedy was provided by A. McCormick in a solo appearance.

Fay Chesney, Doreen Olson, Lon Holman and Arnold Hornby came on the ice as a foursome to perform a tango on ice, and Betti Claire, Marilyn Sehl and Arnold and Harry Hornby showed their versatility as a foursome on roller skates.

Two ballets were performed by senior and junior members, and Gladys and Edward Rushka, instructors, appeared together, and in a ten-step by club members. All artists appeared in the grand parade at the close of the show.

Races for girls and boys were won by skaters from Mount Newton and Victoria High Schools, respectively. Music was provided by the Victoria Boys' Band.

Soccer Games Set

Opening match in the annual Fragments of France Cup competition will be held tomorrow afternoon between Victoria and Saanich schools, while Esquimalt has been drawn against Oak Bay for Friday afternoon. The final will be run off on Wednesday, March 31. Grounds will be announced later.

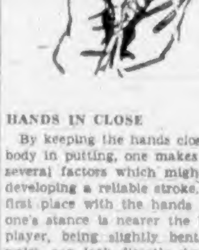
GRAPHIC GOLF

By BEST BALL



HANDS IN CLOSE

By keeping the hands close to the body in putting, one makes possible several factors which might aid in developing a reliable stroke. In the first place with the hands in close, one's stance is nearer the ball and player, being slightly bent at the waist, can look directly down upon it. This is a distinct aid in lining up the ball, in relation to the correct path, as well as making possible considerable relaxation in body. Bending naturally over the ball in this fashion loosens the muscles and induces a smooth stroke.

A number of players have found it helpful to rest the right forearm upon the right thigh when putting. To a degree this limits the length of the stroke and the tempo of it. On the other hand it offers a steadying influence which aids in making accurate contact. For the shorter putts especially it offers an assurance that is needed after one has missed a number of putts. Practise the shot, however, before depending upon it in an actual match, for the technique requires certain adjustments.

Hitler, in First Speech in Months, Says Crisis Passed

LONDON, March 22 (CP).—Hitler emerged yesterday from a 133-day silence which had given rise to rumors of his illness or death to assert in a broadcast that the crisis on the Russian front had been surmounted, that German losses in war dead were relatively small, and admit that many parts of Germany had become "war zones" as a result of incessant Allied bombing.

Veteran broadcast listeners, who have heard many of Hitler's speeches before, listened particularly intently to be sure it was the Fuehrer speaking and said they were convinced it was his voice they heard.

In one of the shortest and most subdued speeches he has ever delivered the Fuehrer told a Memorial Day gathering at the Zaughaus (military museum) in Berlin that 542,000 German soldiers had been killed since the start of the conflict.

Premier Joseph Stalin has set the total of German dead on the eastern front at 4,000,000, and Germany's own admissions of losses in their entrapment and defeat at Stalingrad would appear to make Hitler's total figure for two years of war unduly low.

SAYS ARMY BEING STRENGTHENED

Hitler told his people the army, despite its losses, was being rapidly strengthened by additional classes of servicemen and the return of wounded men who had recovered.

At the same time, he asserted, war production at home, spurred by the new "total mobilization" of the German people, was rising as a result of the utilization of older men, youths and hundreds of thousands of women and girls.

He assured his listeners: "Our front has been stabilized and we have taken measures which will secure in the months ahead of us success until final victory is achieved."

While again seeking to picture Germany as the bulwark of Europe against an incursion from "inner Asia," he did not repeat specific assurances of the smashing of the Russian armies, and produced nothing to match his declaration of March 16, 1941, that "England will fall."

FEARED BRITISH AIR RAID

His closely-guarded personal appearance before military officials, war wounded and a handful of Nazi dignitaries was not revealed over the air until fifty minutes before he was scheduled to speak. Delivery of his speech was then delayed a further twenty minutes, apparently as a precaution against Allied air raids such as those January 30 which marked speeches of Nazi leaders on the anniversary of the party's rose to power.

Hitler's failure to appear at that meeting gave impetus to rumors abroad of his death or incapacity.

The German radio threw further confusion into speculation as to whether Hitler might have been deposed or relinquished his control over the armed forces.

A Transocean commentator took occasion to say the Fuehrer spoke "as supreme commander of the German armed forces."

Hitler, however, was surrounded on the platform by such officers as Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of staff, to whom the Berlin announcer referred as commander-in-chief of the army, a title Hitler took during the 1941-42 Winter campaign in Russia, and by Field Marshal Erhard Milch, whom the announcer called commander-in-chief of the air force.

Field Marshal Goering, second-ranking Nazi, has been regarded as chief of the air force.

Some London quarters noted that similar incidental methods of announcing changes in the German army had often been used by Nazi propagandists.

Dates Arranged For Ice Games

MONTREAL, March 22 (CP).—If fifth, sixth or seventh games are necessary in the National Hockey League semi-final play-off series between Boston Bruins and Montreal Canadiens, the games will be played March 30 at Boston, April 1 at Montreal and April 4 at Boston.

Mervyn (Red) Dutton, acting president of the National Hockey League, today said that "transportation arrangements" were responsible for the selection of the dates. He did not elaborate.

Bruins won the first game of the series at Boston last night. The third and fourth games will be played in Montreal March 25 and March 27.

Dates for the Toronto Maple Leaf-Detroit Red Wings series have already been announced.

Find Pieces Of Airplane

NANAIMO, March 22 (CP).—Pieces of fabric from an R.C.A.F. aircraft were found late today about 1,000 feet from where the remnants of a starboard tail fin had been found Sunday. Provincial Police and R.C.A.F. officials began investigating after the starboard tail fin was found Sunday about six miles from the coast in wooded hill country in the Nanoose Bay district. At first it was thought to be a wing. Nanoose Bay is fifteen miles north of Nanaimo. No further details about the search were available.

Judge Has Guess

SPOKANE, Wash., March 22 (AP).—With a guess as to how long the war would last, Federal Judge Lewis B. Schwellenbach today sentenced John E. Morrison, thirty-five, to serve three years in prison for failure to report to a conscientious objectors' camp.

"I felt," said Judge Schwellenbach in passing sentence, "you should serve as long a term in prison as our boys are in service of their country. It is difficult to determine, but my guess is three years."

Morrison, former employee of the Spokane Immigration Service Office, had been free on $1,000 bond since his arrest in January. He said he objected to war because of religious scruples and felt that going to the objectors' camp furthered the war effort.

Get Commissions

HALIFAX, March 22 (CP).—After completion of a course in light anti-aircraft artillery, a class of students graduated as officers Saturday from the Coast and Anti-Aircraft Artillery Training Centre, near here, the army announced today.

Members of the graduating class, all second lieutenants, included J. H. Palmer, Maple Bay Road, Duncan; J. W. Goldin, 1460 Nelson Street, Vancouver; I. H. B. Cornwall, 584 Vincent Avenue, Victoria.

"I do enjoy lying in bed in the morning and ringing the bell for my valet."

"But you haven't got a valet."

"No, but I've got a bell."

At the Theatres

Absorbing War Drama Held Over in Town

M-G-M's "Journey for Margaret" has been held over at the Dominion Theatre. Filmed against the lurid background of bomb-torn London, it is a dramatic adaptation of W. L. White's memorable book of the same title. Robert Young and Laraine Day are featured, with five-year-old Margaret O'Brien, and Billy Severn portraying the lovable war orphans adopted by Young. In the film, Young rescues Billy from his bomb-wrecked home and later meets Margaret at an orphanage conducted by Fay Bainter and adopts both. How they restore their bomb-shattered nerves and bring them to America forms an absorbing story.

ATLAS THEATRE Produced by Warner Bros. at its Teddington, England, studios, "Flying Fortress," which ends tonight at the Atlas Theatre, embraces the regeneration of an American playboy, Jim Spence (Richard Greene's role), who joins the American division of the R.A.F. and who distinguishes himself in a climatic R.A.F. blitz on Berlin. Dexterly interwoven is the love story of Jim and Sydney Kelly (played by Carla Lehmann).

CADET THEATRE Clark Gable rises to his full stature in the role of a contemporary war correspondent in the Far East in "Somewhere I'll Find You," M-G-M picture co-starring Lana Turner, which is now showing at the Cadet Theatre. The story is as timely as the latest war communique. The direction by Wesley Ruggles emphasizes the drama and the romance, not overlooking the humor of many situations.

OAK BAY AND PLAZA THEATRES Two months ago the world was electrified by the news of the lifting of the seventeenth-month siege of Leningrad. The incredible details of the heroic stand of the people of Leningrad, recorded by Soviet cameramen, have been incorporated into a full-length motion picture called "The Siege of Leningrad," which is now showing at the Oak Bay and Plaza Theatres with commentary by Edward R. Murrow, European manager of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Cadet—Clark Gable and Lana Turner in "Somewhere I'll Find You."

Capitol—Tyrone Power and Maureen O'Hara in "The Black Swan."

Dominion—"Journey for Margaret," starring Robert Young and Laraine Day.

Oak Bay and Plaza—"Siege of Leningrad," official Russian film.

Rio—"San Francisco," starring Spencer Tracy, Jeanette MacDonald and Clark Gable.

York—"The Shepherd of the Hills," starring John Wayne and Betty Field.

RIO THEATRE An uproarious comedy of scholastic life is "Let's Go Collegiate," the Monogram comedy with music, now playing at the Rio Theatre. Frankie Darro is starred as the coxswain of a college rowing crew, and important roles are played by Mantan Moreland, Jackie Moran, Keye Luke, Marcia Mae Jones and Gale Storm.

YORK THEATRE After all these years, Harry Carey had to start taking music lessons before he could begin enacting his role in the Paramount Technicolor version of Harold Bell Wright's "The Shepherd of the Hills," now at the York Theatre. The veteran star, who plays the title role in the picture of Ozark Mountains hill people, had to learn to play Braham's "Lullaby" on an antique spinet.

CAPITOL THEATRE Maureen O'Hara has a virtual monopoly on the distaff side of romance in 20th Century-Fox's Technicolor, "The Black Swan," mightiest of Rafael Sabatini's stirring sea adventures, now at the Capitol Theatre. Starred with Tyrone Power, Miss O'Hara is the only woman in the cast, which features Laird Cregar, Thomas Mitchell, George Sanders, Anthony Quinn and George Zucco.

CHAPTER LVI

He was allowed to see Rosalie four days later; meanwhile nobody had seen her except Bailey and her mother. He found her in a large room full of flowers and gay with sunlight. She was sitting up in bed propped against pillows wearing the [illegible] bedjacket he had ever seen in [illegible] little [illegible] of a rather superior evening dress. Her face was still pale, but her hair seemed more vivid than ever by contrast and so did her rouged mouth and [illegible] lashes and eyes.

"There's been a mistake," Hope said. "If you're a mother, I'm—" He stopped because it was one of those comparisons you couldn't finish.

"You're what?" Rosalie said.

"Stop it. Speechless is what. All I'm trying to say is that you look about fourteen years old."

"Would you like to hear me talk like a mother?" Rosalie said. "Honey, I think I can't do it. [illegible]"

[illegible]

He went back and praised the child extravagantly to Rosalie, who said, "You talk, you don't realize [illegible] but you wait a few years. You'll see."

After that he paid a daily visit to the hospital for the remaining week or more that Rosalie was there. He took her books and flowers and [illegible]

"I haven't asked you lately," Rosalie said. "She must be almost ready for springing on a waiting world—or isn't she?"

Damn near.

He gave details, and as he asked he became enthusiastic in spite of himself. Rosalie said, "I think you like this little girl," and he said, "No, I don't [illegible]"

What Today Means

"ARIES"

If March 23 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date will be from 9.45 to 11.45 a.m., from 1.45 to 3.45 p.m. and from 7.45 to 9.45 p.m. The danger periods will be from 7.45 to 9.45 a.m., from 5.45 to 7.45 p.m. and from 9.45 to 11.45 p.m.

You and you alone have the power to direct your thoughts into the proper channels on March 23, so avoid any tendency toward evil [illegible] of our reasoning; therefore selfish desire and erroneous ideas can end only in a sense of dissatisfaction and disillusionment. From procrastination will come an accumulation of work that will cause much overtime to be spent trying to make up for time lost. Excessive vanity may cause the average woman to spend more time considering her personal appearance than in attending to things of far greater importance, so the wise of the fair sex will guard against succumbing to this temptation. Married and engaged couples and those whose matrimonial dreams seem likely to be realized might do well to remember that nothing is given so profusely as advice and that nothing is so seldom appreciated; therefore on this date it might be better not to offer any.

If you are a woman and March 23 is your birthday, you may have an [illegible] knack for [illegible] You also may be able to [illegible] what people want you to do [illegible] many times you may be able to [illegible] correctly what they are thinking. As a psychiatrist, doctor, [illegible] trained nurse, dietitian, business manager, research worker, [illegible] war work [illegible] Love seems destined to [illegible] assure you the maximum degree of conjugal bliss.

The child born on March 23 generally requires only a little parental help to learn how to concentrate on whatever he is doing. Many "Aries" children develop into veritable bookworms unless their interest is aroused in outdoor sports. By specializing in a particular activity "Aries" youngsters often take their stand among the successful leaders in the profession or business in which they engage.

If you are a man and March 23 is [illegible] Being an admirer of the fair sex, your selection of a wife should do you credit and reflect excellent judgment. As a manufacturer, [illegible] designer, architect, contractor, scientist, [illegible] lawyer, physician, [illegible] executive [illegible] an enviable future.

Official Recommends Licence Restrictions

VANCOUVER, March 22 (CP).—Restrictive limitation of fishing licences rather than a "send them back to Japan" policy was recommended today at a [illegible] dealing with Japanese fishermen after the war when William Burgess, secretary of the United Fishermen's Federal Union, presented his report to the annual convention.

Charging that "certain canners behind the scenes are pulling wires to bring them back," Burgess said the union should demand [illegible] in the number of fishing licences be allowed over the number existing in 1941 and that no person be given a new licence unless he is a bona fide fisherman renewing his past [illegible] would also be an additional practical means of [illegible] Burgess said. "There is no need for the Japanese to be [illegible] the industry as a productive force."

MARINE and TRANSPORTATION

Postwar Life Favorite Topic With Sailormen

HALIFAX, March 22 (CP).—Postwar conferences are being held daily in all places—the mess decks and ward rooms of ships of the Royal Canadian Navy, as the favorite topic of conversation in these sea-going homes is "what I'm going to do after this is over."

Usually the conversation starts with a dreamy-eyed rating gazing at the picture of a luscious blonde that is pinned to the bulkhead and saying, "come the second armistice, and I'm heading for Hollywood to look up that baby."

The theme is quickly picked up by his companions. Some agree with him but a certain percentage keep their feet on the uncertain solidity of the pitching deck and give their ideas of peacetime bliss.

One sailor, an officers' steward, insists that after the war he is going back to sea, but as a passenger, and have at least a dozen stewards running to satisfy his demands.

Another insists that he is going back to his home town where a certain friend of his is going to push him down the main street in a wheelbarrow.

"I've always had a queer hankering to do just that," he explains seriously, "and I think maybe that in the excitement of a peace celebration I could get away with it."

Then there is the corvette skipper, holder of the Distinguished Service Cross, who has a couple of U-boats notched up to his personal record—who says that, after the war, he will never look at the sea again.

Latest unit added to Canada's fast-growing sea power is the new Tribal class destroyer, one of the most powerful destroyers in the world. The Royal Canadian Navy recently announced the commissioning of H.M.C.S. Athabaskan, the second ship of a powerful flotilla (seen above). Her commander, G. R. Miles, O.B.E., R.C.N., is one of the senior commanders of the permanent force, and has been promoted to acting captain. He belongs to Rothesay, N.B. Sub-Lieut. Brown, R.C.N.V.R., is the son of Mrs. O. J. Brown, 1028 Princess Avenue. Sub-Lieut. Hayward is also from Victoria.

Large Average Saved

LONDON, March 22 (CP).—Lord Leathers, Minister of War Transport, told a luncheon today that an average of eighty-seven of every 100 men on freighters sunk in action were saved.

Casualties to seamen, he said, occurred either as a direct result of enemy action or in attempts to get away from sinking vessels. The reported loss of life in lifeboats and on rafts was less than 2 per cent of the occupants and in five cases out of six the survivors were picked up within twenty-four hours.

BOYS AS TRAINMEN

CARBONDALE, Ill., March 22 (AP).—The Illinois Central Railroad plans to train 600 boys of sixteen and seventeen years of age to be brakemen, switchmen and firemen and have them in readiness to replace employees called into the armed forces.

Shipyard Workers Will Receive Vacations With Pay and Extra Compensation For Year's Work

ALL shipyard unions of Victoria yesterday morning signed supplementary contracts providing for vacations with pay and extra compensation depending on regular attendance, as a means of reconciling employees to the continuous operation plan.

The agreements were signed following a conference held in the Empress Hotel, which was attended by representatives of various unions employed in the shipbuilding industry of Victoria; representatives of Yarrows Limited and the Victoria Machinery Depot Limited; Mr. Justice S. E. Richards, chairman of the Royal Commission which investigated working conditions in the shipyards on the Pacific Coast, and F. E. Harrison and G. R. Currie, representatives of the Department of Labor.

Later in the day, when shifts were changing at 4 p.m., G. R. Currie and representatives of—Victoria unions spoke over the loud-speaker system to some 1,200 employees of the V.M.D. shipbuilding plant, the speakers congratulating the boys and girls of the yard on the recognition accorded their efforts by the Dominion Department of Labor. Today the labor representatives will have the same opportunity of addressing the employees of Yarrows Limited—12 noon at No. 2 plant and 4:25 at No. 1 yard.

Labor men who spoke to the workers of the V.M.D. plant, in addition to Mr. Currie, included A. Clyde, business agent of the Boilermakers and Iron Shipbuilders' Union; R. Noble, business agent of the Machinists and Fitters' Union; F. J. Bevis, business agent of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; A. Sims, business agent of United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners; G. Wilkinson, business agent of Painters and Decorators' Union; G. Pyper, business agent of Plumbers and Steamfitters' Union; W. B. Caird, of Plumbers and Steamfitters' Union, and T. Seibert, of Dockyard and Shipyard Workers' Union.

QUITE AGREEABLE TO ESQUIMALT FIRM

Commenting on the agreement, Norman Yarrow, managing director of Yarrows Limited, stated last evening that "it is quite acceptable to our firm. We have high hopes it may have a beneficial effect on increased production. As far as our plant is concerned, we feel it will work to better advantage when we can get more skilled men. What we require most for the type of vessel we are building are larger engineering and electrical staffs."

"Altogether good business," J. Rannie, shipyard manager at V.M.D., stated when asked for comment. "The worker, in my opinion," he added, "who faithfully labors throughout the year is entitled to some recognition from his employer. The week with pay represents but a small addition in cost compared with the much greater value received through unbroken service."

The agreement, which still has to have its final endorsement by Federal authority, is expected to become effective on April 1.

Merchant Ship Sunk

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP).—The navy announced today a medium-sized merchant vessel was torpedoed and sunk by an enemy submarine during the first half of March in the Caribbean area. Survivors have been landed at Key West, Fla. The sinking brought to 835 The Associated Press compilation of announced sinkings in the Western Atlantic.

Changes in Commands

LONDON, March 22 (CP).—Vice-Admiral Sir Bruce A. Fraser has been appointed commander-in-chief of the Home Fleet replacing Admiral Sir John C. Tovey, it was announced today along with several other British Naval Command shifts.

Fraser was given the rank of acting admiral. He has been the second in command.

Tovey, who has commanded the Home Fleet since the start of the war, was made commander-in-chief of The Nore, the naval shore base post which includes supervision of operations along the Eastern English coast. He succeeds Admiral Sir George H. D'O. Lyon.

Tourist Resorts of Canadian National Will Remain Closed

MONTREAL, March 22 (CP).—R. C. Vaughan, president of the Canadian National Railways, announced here today the system's three tourist resorts would not open this season. The establishments affected are Jasper Park Lodge, in Jasper National Park, Alberta; Minaki Lodge, Lake of the Woods district, Ontario, and Pictou Lodge, at the edge of Northumberland Strait in Nova Scotia.

Mr. Vaughan said "the decision was made as a result of a careful study of Canada's wartime economy, including manpower, foodstuffs and transportation."

The three lodges can accommodate 1,000 guests. "To maintain these resorts requires staffs of men and women, supplies of foodstuffs, and both freight and passenger service," Mr. Vaughan said. "The greater proportion of the summer staffs were recruited from many sections of Canada and included young men and women undergraduates of universities and high school students. This temporary help, numbering several hundred individuals, will now be available for service on farms or in munition plants in their home communities."

Food Ships Arrive

LONDON, March 22 (CP).—Two Swedish Red Cross ships have arrived at Piraeus, the Port of Athens, with food from Canada, the Swedish radio announced today. The report, heard here, said another two Swedish ships have left Greece for Canada to pick up more supplies.

Gruelling Experience Results in Losses to Ships and Submarines

LONDON, March 22 (CP).—Survivors of British ships sunk in the Atlantic arrived at a British port recently with a story of a fierce two-day submarine attack which the Nazi propaganda machine claimed was Germany's biggest U-boat victory.

"It was a gruelling experience, but losses were not confined to one side," said Harry Brocklehurst, a ship's fireman.

"The attack lasted two days and there must have been many U-boats in the battle. Corvettes and destroyers went into action and at night the ship was lit with gun and torpedo flashes.

"When our ship was hit we got off in lifeboats and were picked up by a destroyer within two hours."

Picture of Too Many People Trying to 'Phone at Once

You can see from the picture that too many cars are trying to cross the bridge at one time. Some are held up, because the capacity of any bridge is limited.

A telephone exchange is like a bridge, and telephone calls are like cars crossing the bridge. If a lot of people reach for their telephones at one time, too many calls try to get through the telephone exchange, so some have to wait . . . and among these may be some very important calls.

Why not build a bigger bridge? Why not expand the telephone system to take care of the abnormal surges of traffic which may result from wartime excitements? The Government restricts expansion of this sort to save manpower and materials. Therefore we ask your co-operation to prevent telephone traffic jams. When there is excitement, please resist the impulse to telephone about it, unless this is absolutely necessary.

A telephone traffic jam at a crucial time may have serious consequences!

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, March 22 (AP).—The stock market today got back on its feet after seven successive stumbling sessions.

Rails, gold mines and other favored industrials came to the fore near the end of the proceedings and, despite generally sluggish dealings, gains of fractions to a point or so predominated at the close. It was not a one-way recovery, however, declines being rather plentiful throughout.

Better-rated carriers attracted bids on the idea these may have been oversold in last week's reaction. The gold group benefitted from Prime Minister Churchill's speech touching on the necessity of postwar currency stabilization. Investment demand revived a trifle and efforts at inflation hedging aided individual issues. Although some customers held aloof pending results on Tunisian and Russian battles, the drying up of offerings at the opening inspired reinstatement of commitments on the idea that recent downswing had provided a healthy correction of the lengthy upturn.

The Associated Press average of sixty stocks was up .2 of a point at 46, first advance for the composite since March 12. Transfers of 851,450 shares compared with 1,056,330 Friday and were the smallest for a five-hour stretch since February 8.

The market was fairly broad, 843 separate stocks being traded. Of these 420 were up, 217 down and 206 unchanged.

Among issues touching new 1943 tops were Dome Mines, McIntyre Porcupine and Willys-Overland common and preferred. Conspicuous on the upside were Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Great Northern "B," Paramount Pictures, Radio Corp., United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, J. I. Case and Douglas Aircraft.

DOW JONES AVERAGES

Dow-Jones averages closed today as follows:

Thirty industrials, 129.43, up .30.
Twenty rails, 32.14, up .43.
Fifteen utilities, 17.32, up .02.
Total sales, 851,000 shares.
